Receptive to New Ideas

Changing World in Mind of Sikeston School Head

IN A QUIET MOMENT, Harbin reviews a staff meeting report. "I'm here by 7:15 every morning," he said. "I have a tremendous amount of excess energy. I'm almost never still."

By JUDY GAZETTE

For those who believe in fate, it seems that 42-year-old Sam Harbin has finally been seated in destiny's chair and for those who don't believe in such things, Sikeston has simply selected a school superintendent.

A brief examination would reveal that Harbin's success or failure cannot be measured at once. If, in fact, the new school year is a good one -- progressive and financially sound -- some will say that shadows of the Lynn Twitty administration still loom over the office. On the other hand, if detectible errors are made, Harbin is sure to be blamed.

He is not visibly apprehensive about these possibilities. He is straightforward and outspoken about future plans for the school system.

"I didn't come into this office on the premise of making gross changes," he said, "we have an outstanding school system, and I want to keep it that way."

Harbin is a Southeast Missouri native, born in Puxico, Aug. 22, 1928, youngest of eight children. In 1931, Wesley and Ada Shelton Harbin moved their family to Bakersfield, Calif., where Sam graduated from Kern County Union high school. He lettered in basketball and track.

"I wasn't a star player," he said, "and I was just an average student."

He attended Bakersfield Junior College one year, then moved back to Missouri with his parents and attended Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau.

His first teaching job was in Puxico in 1949. He taught fourth grade for one year and three months before being drafted into the army in 1950.

He served as a first sargeant in the 990th signal operations corps, training troops in Ft. Gordon, Ga.

"I never left Ft. Gordon," he grinned upon recollection.

After his army discharge in 1952, he married Dell Rinehart of Sedalia, Ill.

"I had met her four years before," he said quietly, "while visiting my brother, David. She was 16 years old then, and 20 when we married."

Harbin accepted a teaching job that year at Illmo- Fornfelt school.

"I was actually working at three things," he admitted. "After school, I worked at the Martin Oil Company in Cape Girardeau from 4 p.m. until 10 p.m. as a service station attendant, and I also took correspondence courses from Southeast Missouri State."

In 1955 he graduated from college.

His first certified teaching position was in Cypress, Ill., where he was principal of an elementary school, taught eighth grade and coached.

"I hadn't always wanted to be a school administrator," he confessed, "it just happened that way."

He does not come from a family of educators.

"You see," he said, "my family was extremely poor. Of my five brothers, only one has a college degree and one other completed high school. I hardly knew the older ones because they left home to work. At that time, my parents would have been just as pleased if I had been a farm worker, anything honorable."

"Didn't they encourage you?" I asked.

"Yes, but only passively," he said. "And I don't mean that cruelly, they just didn't realize the value of education. But my eldest brother did lend encouragement."

Calvin E. Harbin is chairman of the division of education at Ft. Hayes College in Kansas. He graduated from the University of Missouri at Columbia and is a colonel in the army reserve.

Harbin earned a masters degree in educational administration and 35 hours credit beyond that at Southern Illinois University in Carbondale. His post graduate work included supportive studies in guidance and statistics.

In June, 1958, Harbin was hired by Twitty as principal of the Airport School.

"Did you intend to stay in Sikeston?" I asked.

"No," he answered quickly, "I came here to learn as much as I could within three or four years. I had heard that this was an excellent system."

In 1961 he was made principal of the junior high school, a position he held four years.

In June, 1965, Harbin joined the Bank of Sikeston as a vice president in charge of public relations.

BILL JOHNSON has served as Malden Chamber of Commerce manager for almost a year.

Chamber Toots Horn But Some Do Not Hear

By CHARLES BRADY

MALDEN -- The Malden Chamber of Commerce existed without a manager from December of 1969, to August of 1970 then Bill Johnson, 49, came along.

"Various cities knew Malden used to have one and they were passing us by because of a lack of correspondence and communication," Johnson said.

Bill J. Crabtree was the first manager of the Chamber of Commerce and his secretary, Betty Dean, and the present secretary, LaFern Young, ran the office between Crabtree and Johnson. Crabtree was manager from August of 1968, to December of 1969.

"The chamber of commerce board of directors felt there was a need for a public relations department," he said.

"The board of directors came to the decision that the chamber should be functioning beyond what it was. Ronnie Dye, president of the Chamber of Commerce, felt there was a need for a fulltime manager since Malden was involved in city growth and new businesses."

Three or four men were considered for the managerial post, Johnson explained, before he was interviewed and endorsed by a chamber of commerce committee.

"The reason they wanted a local man was because he would understand local problems and the involvement of the job better than an outsider," he explained.

He said Poplar Bluff had a local man as manager and he stayed at that position 18 or more years.

Johnson was born Dec. 19, 1921, in Deering and moved to Malden in 1929. He has a wife, Wilma; a son, Stephen Johnson of Orlando, Fla.; and two step-daughters, Dianna Walter, 15, and Judy Walter, 19.

"I guess it's partly because of my children that I am so enthusiastic about the chamber of commerce sponsored toy drive each Christmas," he explained.

Johnson, a retired communication technicians chief in naval electronics from 1941 to 1962, said the managers job was "very difficult" when he first started.

"There was no one around to ask how to do the job," he said. "so I had to go ahead

THIS 10-OUNCE RIGID PLASTIC BOTTLE being developed by a chemical company for Coca-Cola may be on the market in five years. The plastic produces non-toxic fumes when burned and reduces to one one-hundredth of its normal size. The plastic is difficult to crack or break, and broken pieces do not have edges as sharp as glass. A similar product is being tested by Pepsi-Cola. The bottles are designed to solve the litter problem.

Madrid Levee Enlarged

NEW MADRID -- A project to enlarge and raise the grade of the Mississippi river levee is underway seven miles east of New Madrid near the junction of county roads WW and P.

The project, under the direction of the Memphis district, Corps of Engineers, is part of a program to rework the front line of the Mississippi river. The Memphis district extends from Cairo, to Rosedale, Miss.

St. John's Levee District is the sponsoring agency for the job, and William Crumpecker and Sons, Morehouse, are contractors. Skip Crumpecker and Buddy Monday are superintendents, and Brad Crumpecker is assistant superintendant at the site. Cary Print, a student at Southeast Missouri State College of Cape Girardeau is engineering trainee.

A similar job is being carried on 40 miles upstream near Wyatt.

Over 697,000 cubic yards of earth will be moved near New Madrid in the effort to raise the levee six or seven feet above its existing level. Total contract price is $429,640, or 47 cents per cubic yard. Construction may be completed by next spring.

"Land behind the front line levee formerly was used as a floodway when the river reached critical stage," L. A. Brandon, project engineer for the Corps of Engineers, said.

"However, land is precious now -- $400 to $500 per acre -- and the thought of utilizing land for a floodway is obsolete," Brandon explained.

Brandon, originally from Ridgely, began his engineering career 30 years ago on a similar job.

"One of the first jobs I ever worked with was this company," he said.

"They were building a levee at Osceola, Ark., then," Brandon recalled.

A strip of wooded area, approximately four miles long, adjacent to the levee, is being cleared to make room for the new levee.

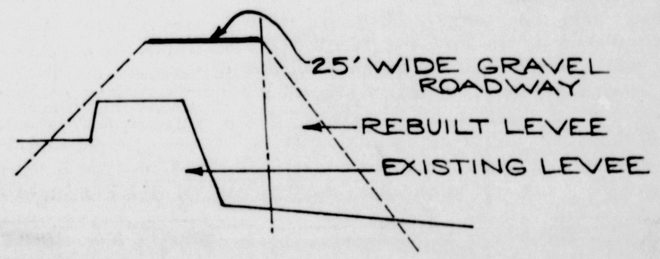
As the timber is cleared, it is dragged into piles and burned. Tires were formerly used to keep timber burning, but the corps of Engineers no longer encourages this practice, due to the smoke and odor.

A new clause added to Corps -- endorsed contracts provides for environmental protection. The contractor may have to go to additional trouble to save existing trees and shrubs, and dispose of materials in a manner that will not pollute waterways or endanger fish or wildlife.

Once the timber is removed, large Euclid scrapers move in to haul dirt from the cleared land to the levee.

The scrapers have a capacity of 18 cubic yards per haul, and when loaded, must be pushed by a powerful D-8 Caterpillar. The massive Euclids have difficulty maintaining traction on even the slightest incline.

"It's just like ants carrying off a slice of bread," one observer said.



THIS DIAGRAM indicates the shape of things to come for the Mississippi river levee seven miles east of New Madrid. (Related picture on page 12).

Building of Trade Skill Center to Start Aug. 9

HOWARDVILLE— Construction will start Aug. 9 on a $3.4 million vocational technical skill center for New Madrid county R-1 enlarged school district.

The school is being built on an 80-acre tract, south of New Madrid, at the junction of highway 61 and Interstate 55.

Contract approval was given Monday by the Economic Development Administration, which is providing a $1,624,000 grant for the job training facility to serve high school students, dropouts, and adults.

Voters in the district approved a $1.1 million bond issue for funds for the center.

Brown Construction Co., Dexter, was awarded the building contract for $2,346,000.

Plans for a sloping landscape in front of the center were changed, Dr. George S. Reuter Jr., superintendent, said, to permit continued excavation of an Indian village by University of Missouri archaeologists of Columbia in the southwest corner of the site.

Third in a Series

Redemption Center Called Stopgap

Editor's note: This is the third of a series of articles on the glass disposal problem in the Sikeston area.

By JUDY STROUP

Bill Burch, manager of the Coca -Cola bottling plant, termed a proposed glass redemption center, a "stopgap measure" to ease the glass disposal problem.

The center would include facilities for crushing waste glass and shipping it to a re-melting plant.

Burch said anti - litter laws and responsible solid waste management are long -term answers to the litter problem.

Burch said the center will fail "unless we get some concerned groups to back us."

Sikeston supermarket managers may be among those in favor of the project.

"One cent per pound is pretty good money if you think about it," Roy Marks of Marks and Stearnes supermarket, said.

"That (glass redemption) would eliminate glass at the city dump.

"We don't have room for a distributing place to receive bottles, but we would be in favor of it if it didn't interfere with our operation," Orville Shamblin, manager of Sikeston IGA added.

A similar view was expressed by Lawrence Cleek, manager of A and P, supermarket who said, "I would participate in it."

Phil Barket, manager of Barkett's Big Star, commented, "Now that bottles are a nickel (deposit) it presents a new problem to us and the customer. People who will buy non - returnables will keep buying them. I think redemption would get old and would stop."

"The center would be helpful, but people here are not as conscious."

City manager Raymert Miller agreed with Barkett:

"The thing is to make people conscious of it, but I don't know how to do it."

Bob Ralph, manager of Ralph Distributing Co., suggested a citizen's meeting to alert the community to the project.

"If we had one big clean -up, it would be the biggest asset to new industry possible," Ralph said.

"If we started it, it would grow to other towns, and Sikeston would be able to point to what had been done and ask other towns why they hadn't done something."

P. H. Riggs, executive committee member for Pepsi - Cola Co. at Malden, said a number of pitfalls could be avoided if sponsors of the proposed glass redemption center could visit a center already in operation.

Pepsi officials have indicated a desire to contribute funds for the project,

Riggs explained that "beverage companies are getting the blame for litter," and that was the reason for their interest in glass redemption.

One beverage company, a brewery in San Francisco, paved the parking lot at its plant with asphalt containing 336,000 waste bottles. The glass was collected by citizens

MENTAL WARFARE ENGAGES US

When you use words to mean the opposite of what they normally stand for, your purpose must be to confuse, befuddle, frustrate or inhibit. This deliberate misuse of words has been characteristic of Soviet leaders for many years, but especially during and since World War II.

For example, "peace" means war. When a nation defends itself against Communist "liberators," it becomes an "aggressor." If it fights back with real vigor, then it is guilty of "escalating" the conflict. To attribute any kind of aggression to the Communist attacker is to be guilty of "slander," and in some cases to call a Communist a Communist is to risk character assassination as a "McCarthyist" and a spinner of "foul fabrications."

Alas, it is not merely foreign Reds who pursue the line that any kind of attack is the best defense. Their mental and moral warfare has been carried on inside every country, with some highly respected organs of information and opinion using the strangetalk or defeattalk or weirddiction in their news and editorial columns or broadcasts.

Mental warfare is the name for it. It is waged mentally and morally. It can maim as surely as bullets or shrapnel, and it can do it to millions, not mere battalions.

HAIL, NOBLE DOG

Word has only just come that July is — or was — national hot dog month.

But better late than never. There's still time to salute the not-so-lowly wiener, frank, red hot or what have you whilst pondering these impressive statistics from the National Hot Dog and Sausage Council.

The hot dog has come a long way since it was introduced at the St. Louis Exposition in 1904. In fact, enough hot dogs are produced every year in the United States alone to reach to the moon and back 2½ times.

Since July is national "hot dog" month, we'd better get on the ball and find out some interesting things about the hot dog.

American writers have given a variety of names to the hot dog: frankfurters, franks, wieners, red hots, pups, hot pups, viennas, and wienies. Hot dogs covered with chili sauce are known as "chihuahuas" in some areas. In other areas, hot dogs smothered in onions are called "poodles." A "choriso" is a highly-spiced hot dog, sold either fresh or dried in the Southwestern portions of the United States.

There is a hot dog stand on Coney Island in New York that sells more hot dogs than any other such stand in the world ...

In the United States alone, 1,485,510,000 pounds of hot dogs are manufactured a year, which comes to 14,855,100,000 hot dogs, or 40,698,900 produced every day!

In 1970, Americans ate an estimated 14,8 billion hot dogs, or 72 per capita. The projected consumption for 1971 is 15.9 billion hot dogs!

Production technology has kept up with consumer demand. In Montreal there is equipment capable of producing 72,000 hot dogs per hour; and a Detroit company comes in second with a machine that produced 62,000 per hour.

The "marriage" of the hot dog to the elongated bun is said to have taken place at the St. Louis Louisiana Purchase Exposition of 1904. A concessionaire loaned white gloves to his customers so they could hold his piping-hot wieners. Many of his gloves were never returned — and his overhead was running high. In desparation, he turned to a baker for help. A bun was produced to fit the meat — and the hot dog sandwich as we know it was born.

The term "hot dog" was coined in 1900. Concessionaire Harry Stevens had his salesmen sell hot dogs from portable hot-water tanks at the New York Polo Grounds, yelling "They-re red hot! Get your red hot dachsund sausages!" Sports humorist Tad Dorgan took the idea and created a cartoon of a talking sausage. But he wasn't quite sure of how to spell dachshund, and so dubbed it "Hot Dog."

Finally, for those who may consider hot dogs too plebeian for their tastes, be advised that hot dogs and champagne are Marlene Dietrich's favorite meal.

You can't get much classier than that.

Frank Briggs in the Macon Chronicle-Herald.

SCOUT'S HONOR

The Boy Scout movement, which is the largest and most widely known youth organization in the world, holds its quadrennial get-together from Aug. 2-10 on the shores of Lake Tanuki, at the western foot of Mount Fuji in Japan. Close to 20,000 boys between the ages of 14 and 18, resplendent with badges and [illegible] World Jamboree. This year the theme of the meeting will be "For Understanding."

With nearly 12 million members in more than 100 countries, scouting has come a long way. It began with 20 boys in an experimental camp held during the first days of August 1907 on Bronsea Island off the coast of England. The camp was so successful that its organizer, Maj. Gen. Robert S. S. Baden-Powell, found himself leading a worldwide movement. His handbook, Scouting for Boys (1908), became an international best seller. At the first World Jamboree, held in 1920, the boys dubbed him "Chief Scout of the World."

Now scouting is struggling to consolidate the new look it introduced five years ago. "Today scouts do more than just help little old ladies across the street," a spokesman for the British Scout Association told Editorial Research Reports in London. For example, Flemish Scouts launched a tree-planting drive in Belgium towards the end of 1970. And research done by Danish Rover Scouts led to the publication of a pamphlet on the sources of water pollution. After the Andean earthquake, Peruvian scouts set up a nationwide network for the collection of clothing and food and established distribution posts in damaged areas. They adopted 1,000 orphans, turning their own training center into a hostel for the homeless.

Although scouts in England still involve themselves in local projects such as old people's entertainment, scouts coming from middle-class suburban homes have trouble finding ways of doing their duty. A British spokesman noted that, "In a welfare state it is sometimes very difficult to find someone who really needs a good turn done to them." Working in a geriatric ward, for example, is not every scout's cup of tea. And yet, as Lord Baden-Powell emphasized, scouts must concentrate on their role in the community. Said the old Scout Master before his death: "The real way to get happiness is by giving happiness to other people."

COTTON'S MARKETS DEMAND ADEQUATE SUPPLY

If you can't get what you want in one store, you will go across the street to another store and ask for it. This is the way of life in the market place. It applies to textiles just as to any other product.

Mills have a choice of raw materials to process. For some time, they have been turning to synthetics. This has cut significantly into cotton's share of the market.

Now, the consumption decline has been checked. Youth is demanding color and comfort in apparel and cotton is the ideal answer. Sales of prints, knits, corduroys, denims, and other cottons are holding up well and this is reflected in a stronger demand for cotton. This turnaround is encouraging to cotton farmers who have been putting up a dollar a bale for research and promotion to strengthen their markets.

Failure to capitalize on the demand for cotton by not providing an adequate supply, however, could jeopardize markets and the grower's investment in land, equipment, and other cotton production resources. This has prompted the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the ASCS, and state agricultural extension services to join with the National Cotton Council in a campaign for "Better Cotton Yields for Profits and Markets" in 1971.

They point out that a better yield can bolster the growers net income, increase his payment base under the government farm program, and build greater markets for cotton.

Cotton is an essential commodity. It is highly important not only to the economy of Missouri but to the country as a whole. The effort to increase cotton yields and strengthen markets deserves support.

Enough of Everything if . . .

America has plenty of land to meet its farming, ranching, forestry and living space needs for the foreseeable future, according to a survey by government soil scientists and conservationists in 3,087 of the nation's 3,135 counties.

If -- we take care of it.

A "Conservation Needs Inventory" reveals that the nation's land, thanks to continually increasing efficiency, is feeding and clothing an increasing population even with reduced acreages.

Since the previous inventory in 1958, population has increased 24 million, yet cropland has declined by 10 million acres and privately owned pasture and range has decreased by three million acres.

In the same period, 11 million acres were added to urban and built-up areas and -- a figure to warm a conservationist's heart -- 9.5 million acres were added to forests.

On the other hand, the scientists warn that three-fifths of the present cropland, 67 per cent of pasture and range and 62 per cent of private forestland is not being treated with proper conservation measures to avoid deterioration.

A Frenchman named Laurent "has invented a new type of incendiary rocket based on the firing of a chamber filled with petroleum oil, which falls like a sheet and continues burning." Scientific American reported awhile back.

In an experiment conducted with the weapon, christened the "Satan rocket," a considerable space of ground was covered with a sea of fire. A general witnessing the test declared himself "appalled at the terrible nature of this engine of destruction" and a committee of artillery officers stated that in its opinion "no civilized nation could make use of these rockets except for reprisal."

The story appeared in the December, 1870, issue of the magazine.

The world can be thankful that the officers were right. In the century since then, no nation has ever made use of the "Satan rocket" -- by that name.

PRELUDE TO DISASTER

Three of the nation's top economists were asked recently whether they favored wage-price controls as a means of combating inflation. Their replies are interesting and strongly at variance with the "man in the street" notion that controls of this nature are the ultimate and most practical answer to the soaring cost of living. All three were opposed to direct wage-price controls, except in a most dire emergency. One, Dr. Milton Friedman, said, "I am strongly opposed to both guidelines and controls. They have been tried many times and have never yet worked. In failing, they have just distorted the economy and spread misinformation about the causes of inflation. Inflation is made in Washington, and nowhere else."

Wage - price controls would be the end of a free market. But, there would still be inflation, minus the alleviating factor of the competitive, mass-production, mass-distribution system which, through sheer efficiency, manages to absorb much of the impact of inflation.

A SOUTHERN PALACE

Six Flags Over Texas is a huge amusement park located on Interstate 20 about mid-way between Dallas and Fort Worth. Thousands of people from across the nation come to Six Flags every year to wander through the fairyland of imaginary characters and enjoy the thrills of the Runaway Mine Train and the Log Ride. But sun and thrills are not all the Six Flags visitor can find.

Near the center of the large and cleanly-kept grounds of the park is the "Southern Palace" where live entertainment is presented daily. This is not the ordinary live entertainment with long-haired weirdos and strange-sounding noise they prefer to call "music." This is constructive entertainment by young patriotic citizens of Republic USA.

The theme of the show is a red-white-and-blue, flag-waving tribute to our nation and its great history. The show includes a slide show of great American historical events such as the Civil War and the singing of patriotic hymns like "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" and "America, the Beautiful." There is no tribute paid to protestors, potheads, hippies, pillheads and free lovers. They deserve no tribute.

These young people know the value of supporting our nation and doing their individual parts to emphasize Freedom's advantages. They walk proudly UNDER the flag, not ALL OVER IT! They believe in resolution, not revolution, and respect the laws of the land. They work for a living and are proud that they do. They want a better world that is constructive, not a bitter world that is destructive.

The audiences that see this production and the dedication of these youthful leaders are caught up in the "glory of the flag" and very often respond with standing ovations for the cast and sentiment expressed.

When God made the eagle, He said: "The sky is the limit. Go build your own house." The young patriots at the "Southern Palace" are the eagles of our nation's future and are flying high to build their house on top of Freedom's mountain. They deserve a standing ovation! HLH

Inside Labor

WASHINGTON:-- Not even the most sophisticated computers which arrange for a rendezvous on the moon can calculate the billions of dollars lost by the nation's railroads to pay men who don't work; men who sit and watch others perform a task for which both are paid; men who get anywhere from three to five days' pay for doing one day's work.

Some railroad specialists put the figure at $5 billion a year. Some, at $13.5 billion wasted. But either way, it's lots of money even in this Keynesian town.

Fair is fair. Just note this: an "on-train" employee, say, a conductor, on the Metroliner's round trip from Union Station here to New York and back, gets four days' pay for one day's "work." So he runs a day and has virtually a week's pay. He then can moonlight or watch the flower people on the Mall.

This has been the longest running dice game in the country, as one Federal official put it. These are weird pay rates and rules which have gotten weirder ever since the New Deal took over the National Railroad Adjustment Board and tightly controlled it back around 1937.

Or there is the big switching game: a limit is drawn around a rail yard or terminal. Arbitrarily, the rail unions have set such rules as special pay for picking up freight at plants within four miles of the terminal -- if those plants were built before 1951.

Or there is the yard line between on-train crews and rail yard crews. Both have different seniority lists. It is as though they worked for different lines miles apart. If inside the yard an on-train crew handles the slightest switching or car transferring work, this on-train crew gets two days' pay. One day's income for working in the yard. One day's pay for on-train duty, though they have already been paid for the day.

And the terminal (or yard) crew gets a day's pay though they just stood by and watched. They did not even have to watch. They could have been in the washroom or the coffee shop. So the railroad has to pay three days' pay for what should have been one day's pay for work that may have taken a few minutes.

These rules are called "arbitraries." In effect, the union fights to stretch the work. And strikes if it can't hold back the 20th Century -- and by that I don't mean the wonderful old liner which used to start us on our Hollywood journeys.

For example, in the past 10 years, 23 railroads spent $33 million on radio communication equipment -- engine-to-ground and yard communication, caboose to engineer. But the union has fought the use of walkie-talkies because this speeds up work and someone may get laid off. So, the union demands penalty pay for using radio communications instead of smoke signals.

Costs? The bankrupt "Pennsy" reports that excess manpower costs it $135 million yearly -- for unneeded work, not done by featherbedders. And there are [illegible] Class A as well as the vital, small-link lines without which this nation's rail grid could not function.

Well, the 21st Century has a way of showing up. And it runs head on into Stone Age tactics. So it's time someone laid it on the line. What is this strike-happy outfit, this 280,000-member United Transportation Union (AFL-CIO) which worships the steam engine?

First, look at its power to strike. It can call out its men now, under the Supreme Court ruling that selective strikes are legal. Striking doesn't hurt the men much. Under the Railroad Retirement Board benefits (paid by the rail carriers) a striker gets about half his regular income when out of work. This is tax free. So add that. If he can show need, he receives help from local agencies in some form of welfare or relief, reportedly even food stamps. So he doesn't hurt.

But there are thousands of other workers who do. They are the men and women who lose a day or week's work in coal mines, steel mills, auto plants, on farms, in warehouses and other industries dependent on the rails. And what of the trains which lie exposed for lack of freight cars?

This UTU is led by a cigar-chomping chap I know well, one Charles Luna who is the drollest fellow when he gives you the "country boy" routine. He knows that in the final analysis he can hit link railroads such as the Alton and Southern Railway, which has 155 miles of track and only 641 employees but is a crucial link in the grid. It is a big switching operation. And if you can't switch, you can't operate, and if enough little links are paralyzed the whole system breaks down.

Charles Luna will retire during the union's 19-day convention in Miami Beach's luxury Fontainebleau Hotel. And there are more than three coins in this Fontainebleau saga. Luna's job pays $37,600 yearly. And this presidency is coveted. Now it happens that there are five men in the running for the job -- and four of them make up the UTU's national negotiation committee. And, according to government officials, they're not about to come to the convention as weaklings who surrendered any arbitraries won by strike threats over the past 35 years.

These men were top leaders in four unions, the Conductors and Brakemen, the Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, and the Switchmen's Union, which merged in January 1969 into the UTU.

These arbitraries practically double the rail worker's regular hourly income -- and cut his work in half. And the UTU negotiation committee men aren't about to slash their intra-union careers in half. And the nation's railroads aren't about to see bankruptcy cut the lines in half.

It's up to the Congress -- which is yawning through the crisis, preparing to go home for August.

The UTU has political muscle. Few politicians want to tangle with that. What matters the 21st Century -- or the great train robbery?

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--The Navy has made a secret preliminary finding that its own designers are probably to blame for the death of five sailors and the injury of six in an engine room explosion on the U.S.S. Trenton, an amphibious transport dock.

The disaster in June is just one more horror story for debt-plagued Lockheed, whose subsidiary in Seattle built the Trenton. Lockheed is partially suspect in the blast.

A Navy Court of Inquiry is now sifting the evidence behind closed doors at Norfolk, Va., under Rear Adm. Michael U. Moore.

Navy experts have determined tentatively that a design failure in a valve allowed 600 pounds per square inch of steam to explode onto the sailors. The huge pressure was on the stem instead of on the stronger bonnet where it should have been.

The question of whether Lockheed must share the blame is now under debate in the Navy. Some Navy experts believe Lockheed Shipbuilding is blameless. They say the original Lockheed valve was replaced before the ship put to sea. However, the Navy is having the fatal fitting tested to see whether any metallurgical defect can be chalked up to Lockheed or a subcontractor.

The Trenton is one of seven such ships built by Lockheed. Newly-commissioned, it suffered the steam explosion during exercises off the U.S. base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba. Now, fittings are being checked out on all the other Trenton-type ships.

There is a terrible irony in the death of these sailors in the white inferno of steam. The Navy has fired a pipe inspector, Oscar Hoffman, who showed just the kind of diligence that might have turned up such faults.

Hoffman, who worked on shipyards in Seattle, has sued his Navy bosses--including two who also had supervisory roles over Lockheed's Trenton-type boats. Hoffman charges one boss was entertained by Todd officials at an Elks Club even while Hoffman belabored Todd for its workmanship. Todd, also named in Hoffman's suit, has denied any wrongdoing.

--FORD ROLLOVER--

In June, a top Ford executive warned the public about safety problems in General Motors' Corvair. Henry Ford II, instead of praising his aide, hastily telephoned GM Chairman James Roche to disassociate Ford Motor from the warning.

Now, the Ford official, Harley Copp, may go to the chopping block. There are reports within Ford that the company for which he has worked 25 years is going to lop off 700 of 1,000 men in his division.

Copp's peculiar lesson in the dangers of corporate honesty began in May. At that time, GM said its now-discontinued Corvair doesn't roll over any more than "competitive cars of the same era," including the Ford Falcon.

Copp had engineered the Falcon, was proud of it, and took the GM statement as a blatant insult to his car and his company. He wrote Senate Commerce Chairman Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., telling him of the 1959 Ford tests of Corvairs which showed they rolled over far too easily.

When Henry Ford II heard of Copp's letter to Magnuson, he summoned into his plush offices Ford vice president William Innes, legal advisor Hank Nolte and others. The talk was not about how to keep up the fire on GM, but how to cool it.

With his aides beside him, Ford rang up GM Chairman Roche. Instead of roasting GM for its insult to the Falcon, not approve Copp's letter and that Copp was acting on his own.

--OFFERS TO QUIT--

The distressed Copp, aware by now he was in the doghouse for his belief in free enterprise and competition, offered to quit his job as director of engineering and technical services.

Innes, an old friend, talked him out of it, but gave him no public support. While morale dropped among Ford engineers who worked on the Falcon, Copp sat tight. But rumors spread that Ford himself had ordered another ace technical man, Bob Graham, to begin taking over part of Copp's division.

It was then that Magnuson, fearing Copp's fate was uncertain, wrote an energetic private letter to Henry Ford II in an effort to preserve Copp in his job.

"In speaking out against erroneous statements of the General Motors Corporation," said Magnuson, "Mr. Copp distinguished himself as a person who is committed to the Ford Motor Company and to the public...."

Lawyer Nolte conceded to us that Graham might be getting a new job, but said he had no knowledge it was at Copp's expense. As to the Roche call, Nolte confirmed Ford made it. But it was "informative," not "apologetic." Copp declined comment.

Footnote: A question now haunting consumer advocates is why Ford did not make public in 1959 its tests showing Corvairs had dangerous rollover tendencies. Lives might have been saved, and GM might have corrected the perky little cars before Ralph Nader sank his teeth into them. Hard-competing old Henry Ford, Sr., Henry II's grandfather, would certainly have found a way of making [illegible]

NEW YORK (AP) — "World, here I come. Have beaded gown, will travel."

That is the new slogan of Miss Julie Wilson, now appearing at the Rainbow Grill here, who in any popularity contest among her peers would rank as one of the best-liked performers in show business.

As a screen, television and super club star, she has shown her skill at handling audiences. Now she has decided to see if she can handle her career all by herself.

She felt that career had reached some kind of crisis earlier this year when there occurred a lull in it that periodically frightens most stars.

Only the year before she had starred in two Broadway shows. Unfortunately, "Jimmy" lasted only three months and "Park" only three days.

"I was ready to quit show business three months ago," Julie recalled. "Nobody called, nobody offered me a job. I hadn't been on television recently, and unless you're on television everybody thinks you are dead or retired.

"I decided that if agents can't do it for you, you have to do it for yourself. I decided to be my own agent and manager. I figured that nearly 30 years of show business must have taught me something."

After an amicable parting with her agent, the singer set out to do her own booking. She has been phenomenally successful. She has made a couple of television appearances, has signed up for a series of top supper club bookings, and is considering another Broadway show.

Her office? It's a three-bedroom ranch house she recently bought in her home town—Omaha, Neb.—where she feels her two sons, Holt, 7, and Michael, 6, will be able to grow up in a freer and less fearful atmosphere.

"The kids are my life," she said. "Anyway, all you need for an office is a telephone."

A lifelong capacity for friendship is one key to Miss Wilson's successful upsurge. Nobody who meets the breezy, down-toearth, hazel-eyed singer is likely to forget her.

"Money you lose, friends you keep"—that is the way she sums up her philosophy. It could well sum up her career so far, too.

Miss Wilson started at $40 a week in a touring edition of "Earl Carroll's Vanities" and danced and sang her way up to the $5,000 a week bracket.

Her goal, she says, is "to learn how to accept what life offers, the good and the bad, cheerfully. For every bad night, you have many beautiful

Administration on Way to Worst Two-Year Deficit Since '45-6

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is on the way to piling up the worst back-to-back deficits in federal government operations since 1945-46.

But administration officials shrug off the two deficits, expected to total more than $40 billion in fiscal 1971 and 1972, saying they are fiscally responsible.

The reason, they say, is that the budget spending is pegged to the amount of tax revenues the government would expect to receive in times of high prosperity.

In fiscal 1945, the federal deficit, ballooned by wartime spending, was $45 billion. As peace returned, the deficit dropped to $18 billion the following year.

The Treasury Department reported Wednesday the deficit for fiscal 1971, which ended June 30, climbed to $23.2 billion, second highest one-year deficit of the post-World War II era.

Officially, the White House says, the deficit for fiscal 1972 will be $11.6 billion. But already administration officials have acknowledged publicly it will be closer to $18.6 billion.

The largest back-to-back deficits in the past 25 years were those in fiscal 1967 and 1968 when President Lyndon B. Johnson was in office.

But the Nixon deficits are more responsible than those, say administration officials, including Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, a Democrat and close political associate of Johnson.

The fiscal 1971 budget actually showed a $2.5-billion surplus on a full-employment basis, Conally and George P. Shultz, director of the Office of Management and Budget, said. It was the third year in a row a full-employment balance or surplus has been achieved.

"This record is in sharp contrast to that of fiscal years 1966 through 1968, when full-employment deficits totaled more than $40 billion," they said.

Full employment is defined as a 4-per-cent jobless rate. The unemployment rate during the fiscal year averaged 5.7 per cent and got bigger as the year went along.

As the federal budget floundered deeper in the red, so did the nation's trade position.

In June, the Commerce Department said, the nation recorded its third straight monthly deficit in trade, with imports exceeding exports by $363 million, raising the figure for the first six months of the year to $373 billion. This was the first time this had happened in the 25 years the government has been keeping trade figures on a seasonally adjusted basis.

Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans says the balance could drop to zero this year for the first time since 1893.

Brief Engine Burst Zeroes Astronauts in on Moon

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Apollo 15 astronauts, their commander a newly qualified space plumber, zeroed in on the moon with a brief engine burst today and were ready to fire into lunar orbit using a new technique that will require split-second manual control.

The one-second course change maneuver at 11:04 a.m. EDT nudged the spaceship onto a moreprecise path that will take it within 65 miles of the moon's surface later in the day.

Scott, who used a wrench Wednesday night to fix a water leak in the cabin, reported "I guess you can see it was a nice smooth burn."

Apollo 15 was 14,294 miles from the moon, travening 2,691 miles an hour.

As the astronauts make their close approach to the moon, they will execute a new engine ignition procedure to shoot into orbit.

The new firing procedure is necessary to by-pass a short circuit that developed in the engine system shortly after Scott, James B. Irwin and Alfred M. Worden were launched from Cape Kennedy Monday on their moon-landing expedition.

Astronaut Richard L. Gordon, commander of the Apollo 15 backup crew, worked out the technique in a computer-driven simulator here and passed up instructions to Apollo 15 Wednesday night.

First trial of the procedure is set for 4:05 p.m. EDT today when Apollo 15 sweeps behind the backside of the moon and fires into orbit about 70 miles above the surface.

The short is in one of two electrical circuits which the astronauts can use to trigger the 20,500-pound thrust engine on their command ship Endeavour.

It indicates the firing mechanism on one bank has been armed and that the use of a computer to fire the engine might ignite it prematurely. Mission Control does not believe the engine actually is harmed, but it doesn't want to take chances.

The second circuit is in good condition, but at least six more firings of the engine are planned and to use the second bank for all six might deteriorate it.

Under the procedures worked out by Gordon, Apollo 15 will use computer control and the good circuit for the most critical burns. A hybrid maneuver employing both circuits under manual control will be used for the firings requiring less, but still extremely accurate, precision, such as the one firing them into moon orbit.

While the astronauts were in a sleep period at 1:25 a.m. today Apollo 15 quietly slipped through a so-called "twilight zone" in which the gravitational influence of the earth and moon is equal. They were 219,308 miles from home and 39,028 miles from the moon.

When the spaceship passed this invisible line, the moon won the gravitational tug of war and Apollo 15's speed accelerated after slowing to about 2001 miles an hour. The speed will increase to about 5,700 m.p.h. when the astronauts loop around the moon's backside.

Before the water leak incident, Scott and Irwin crawled through a connecting tunnel into the lunar lander Falcon for a second inspection of its systems. They pronounced it in excellent condition to carry them to a landing at the base of the moon's tallest mountains, the Apennines, at 6:15 p.m. Friday.

For 67 hours, they are to explore the surface, driving a wheeled moon buggy to inspect the mountains, a deep gorge called Hadley Rille, the craters, some of which may be volcanic.

While in the Falcon, they cleaned up additional slivers of glass from a small shattered pane which they discovered during the first visit Tuesday.

The pane was part of a double-glass cover on a radar meter. Mission Control said tests showed the loss of helium pressure that resulted when the outer glass broke would not affect the meter's performance.

Earlier Wednesday, the three astronauts pulled their window shades and donned blindfolds in a scientific quest for information about mysterious cosmic lights that flashed through their eyes and brain cells.

During the hour-long test, they reported about a sighting a minute but said there was no physical sensation. Scott said about 90 per cent of his sightings took the form of single pinpoints.

"As for my impressions," said the Apollo commander, "you might picture yourself high in the stands at the Ice Capades with the arena darkened and some single figure on the ice like Peggy Fleming doing a nice thing. And you look across at the other side of the dark arena and somebody shoots a flashbulb."

The test was devised because all previous Apollo crews reported the flashes far from earth and in the vicinity of the moon, mostly when the cabin was dark and their eyes were closed.

New Rail Negotiations Slated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House scheduled new negotiations today between the United Transportation Union and carriers in an attempt to settle a dispute that has idled four railroads.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the talks are the Nixon administration's continuing "attempts to aid the parties in reaching a voluntary agreement.

Assistant Secretary of Labor W. J. Usery, acting on another administration directive, met in Cleveland with UTU President Charles Luna Wednesday night. A union spokesman said no progress was made in the meeting.

Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson told Congress the administration wants a voluntary settlement. "Compulsory solutions are a last resort," he told a House Commerce subcommittee Wednesday.

His statements were backed up at the White House, where Ziegler said no request for emergency legislation would be made unless economic effects of the strike become too great.

The union has added three more lines to the list it plans to shut down in its progressive walkouts.

Already struck in a dispute centered on work rules are the Southern Railway, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and the Norfolk & Western. Added for Aug. 11 are the Erie-Lackawanna, Louisville & Nashville and St. Louis and San Francisco.

Six rail firms are scheduled for strike this Friday: the Atchinson, Topeka & Santa Fe; Houston Belt & Terminal; Alton & Southern; Duluth, Messabi and Iron Range; Elgin, Joliet and Eastern, and the Bessemer and Lake Erie.

Scheduled for Aug. 6 strikes are the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific; Chicago Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific; Missouri-Kansas-Texas; Baltimore & Ohio, and Chesapeake & Ohio.

Editors: FYI, talks scheduled for 2 p.m. EDT.

Hodgson Tells Congress

New Strike Legislation Must Be Written to Stop Spread

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress must soon write new legislation dealing with national transit labor problems "or get ready to go into the disputesettling business on a massive scale," says Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson.

"I urge you to resist the temptation to believe compulsory arbitration and free collective bargaining can somehow lie down together like the lion and the lamb," he told the House transportation subcommittee Wednesday. At the core, each is at war with the other. There must be a choice."

Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe was called to testify today.

The subcommittee, at hearings on a batch of bills to set up new permanent legislation heading off frequent emergency congressional intervention in plane and train disputes, faces a difficult job, said Commerce Committee Chairman Harley O. Staggers.

"I hope they have all the wisdom in the world to come up with it," the West Virginia Democrat told Hodgson. "We've been asked for some permanent legislation ... it's going to be a little bit hard to come up with some kind of answer."

Staggers approved of Hodgson's decision declining to discuss the current selective-strike situation. The chairman said strikers and management should have an opportunity to work out their own affairs under Hodgson's encouragement of a voluntary settlement instead of a compulsory solution by Congress now.

Hodgson, urging approval of the Nixon administration's proposed emergency public interest protection act, said: "The public will no longer tolerate national emergencies caused by transportation labor disputes.

"Bargainers no longer fear congressional action as they once did, so more and more disputes will end up in the lap of Congress. This leaves Congress with the choice of either equipping itself to get heavily into the labor dispute-settling business or enacting legislation to forestall assumption of this unwanted burden."

The administration bill would build on the Taft-Hartley Act, giving the president three new options covering all transit industries, and would reform Railway Labor Act procedures "to create a new climate that will promote real and effective collective bargaining," Hodgson said.

The president could either extend the cooling-off period, operate part of a troubled industry, or have a neutral board impose as a binding settlement the last contract offer of either union or management.

Mrs. Stephen Mark Fugate

Fugate-Woodard

EAST PRAIRIE -- Miss Deborah Dean Woodard and Stephen Mark Fugate were married in a setting of multi-hued daisies illuminated by candlelight July 10 in the Nelson Memorial United Methodist church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Woodard, Jr. and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Herman Fugate.

A basket arrangement of Killian daisies in white and pastel shades of pink and turquoise, flanked by matching 15-branch arch candelabra formed the background before which the Rev. Glen Lashley, pastor of the church, performed the double ring ceremony.

Musical selections, "The Shadow of Your Smile", "Somewhere" and "The Impossible Dream" were played by Lee Felts on trumpet and Mrs. Weldon Bird at the organ, prior to the ceremony. Milas Mainord, soloist, sang "Bridge Over Troubled Waters", "The Theme from Love Story" and as the couple knelt, "The Lord's Prayer".

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white re-embroidered English illusion, poised over bridal silk. A bias band of pale pink bridal silk defined the empire bodice which featured a scoop neckline and long Juliet sleeves fitted at the wrist with handmade silk buttons. The button detail was repeated down the back of the bodice.

Her graceful skirt was fashioned into a bias circular design with deep folds creating simultated panels, while the back fullness flowed into a train of chapel length.

Created for her gown, her headdress was a ripple brim Southern Belle hat of white English illusion to which her chapel length veil of imported illusion was attached. A pale pink velvet choker encrusted with seed pearls was her only item of jewelry.

She carried a cascade basket of pink roses sourrounding pink and white daisies with ivy and ribbon streamers.

Mrs. Richard Dodson of Bertrand was matron of honor and her bridesmaids were Miss LaDonna Johnson of East prairie, Miss Debra Jo Hoover of Cupertino, Calif., and Miss Marla Adkison of Los Angeles. Michael Fugate of Memphis served his brother as bestman. Groomsmen were Dwight Fugate, brother of the groom of Memphis, Samuel Woodard, brother of the bride of East Prairie and Mike Pulhamus, cousin of the groom, from Omaha, Neb. Ushers were Mike Tatum of East Prairie and Mike Esposite of Chicago.

Serving at the reception following the ceremony in the dining hall of the church were Mrs. David Harrison of St. Louis and Mrs. Michael Fugate of Memphis. Julie Harrison and Chery Fugate presented guests of the reception with pink net rice bags.

Presiding at the guest register in the foyer of the church was Mrs. Danny Scruggs of East Prairie.

Following a wedding trip to Biloxi, Miss., and New Orleans, the young couple are at home in Oak Park, Ill.

The new Mrs. Fugate is a 1967 graduate of East Prairie high school and graduated from the University of Missouri at Columbia this spring. Fugate, a 1966 graduate of East Prairie high school, received his degree in journalism from the University of Missouri at Columbia in 1970. He is employed in the advertising department of Sear's Chicago.

Psychiatry Not a Cure All, But it Can Help

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I admired your raw courage when you blasted the chiropractors. And now, my dear, when are you going to unmask the psychiatrists? You know good and well that most of them are charlatans, interested only in a lucrative practice. Have you ever heard of a mentally sick person who was set right permanently by psychiatry? I have not.

No amount of therapy can cure a problem caused by heredity. Hours of talking cannot alter defective genes. Surely you know that depressions are cyclical and most people who believe psychiatry helped them would have gotten better without it. No one will ever sell me the idea that mental illness yields to persuasion. Why don't you give up?---With You On Most Things.

Dear With: I wouldn't try to sell you anything. Your mind is not only closed--it is nailed shut.

Charlatans can be found in every field and psychiatry is no exception. In addition to the quacks, there are also incompetent psychiatrists, and downright nutty ones who went into the specialty in search of solutions to their own problems.

While emotional illness may seem to run in families, it is not inherited in the same way that a syphilitic mother passes on the disease to her offspring. Our central nervous system are inherited, however, and this is a factor which cannot be discounted.

I have stated repeatedly that a sick person who seeks psychiatric help has only a 50-50 chance of getting well. Of those who do get well, some credit their doctors with rescuing them from a prison of hate and bitterness, unable to work, unable to love and unable to accept themselves.

True, talking cannot alter defective genes, but it can dissipate hostility and anger which is like poison to the body and mind. Talking can also bring tremendous relief to people whose real feelings have been hidden even from themselves. Moreover, talking can uncover an enormous amount of unearned guilt, which is a major cause for nervous breakdowns.

You say you've never heard of a mentally ill person who was set right by psychiatry? Well, I have. Furthermore, I receive letters of appreciation almost every day from people who say therapy saved their lives and they thank me for urging them to get professional help.

Dear Ann Landers: I've been looking at this piece of paper for half an hour trying to put this delicately. But there's no way--so here it goes.

Last weekend we had guests. (Close relatives). One of the guests came out of the bathroom with a very sheepish expression on his face. Finally he said, "I broke the toilet seat." Everyone roared.

He was embarrassed, and I felt sorry for him. Later that evening he asked me to buy a new seat and send him the bill. I informed him that it wasn't necessary--that the seat had been cracked for some time and it could have happened to anyone. His response was, 'You are just trying to make me feel better. I don't believe it."

Yesterday we received a blank check with a note saying, "Please buy a new seat to replace the one I broke. I won't be comfortable until you do." I would feel like a fraud accepting his money. That doggone thing was ready to go any minute. My husband says we should accept the check, buy a new seat and forget it.

What do you say?---A House Divided

Dear House: Accept the check. Buy a new seat and forget it.

When romantic glances turn to warm embraces is it love or chemistry? Send for the booklet "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference," by Ann Landers. Enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 35 cents in coin with your request.

NEW YORK — Hit over the head three times this season by the New York Mets, Steve Carlton charged his game plan Wednesday with singular success. And when Joe Torre and rookie Jose Cruz supported the tall lefthander with booming home runs, the Cardinals turned on their tormentors.

"I threw a lot of curve balls," said Carlton after holding off the Mets for a 6-3 victory at Shea Stadium. "They'd been hitting my fastball in other games, so I tried something different for a change."

Can you blame him?

Conquered three times previously by the Mets, Carlton could see his chances for his first 20-victory output grow dimmer. But he was a strong all-the-way workman, shrugged off disheartening breaks and recorded his fourteenth victory.

A six-time loser, Carlton struck out seven and now needs only victories over San Francisco and Cincinnati to complete the pitching "cycle."

The Red Birds, matching New York's eight-hit total, pounced early on young lefty Jon Matlack. They had routed him 10 days earlier in St. Louis, so his two major -league losses have been inflicted by the Cardinals, who inched away from the fourth-place Mets.

Jerry McNertney, the Cardinals' super-sub catcher spelling Ted Simmons, began a three-run second inning with a single. After Cruz struck out, Dal Maxvill pushed a hit to right and Carlton drew a bases loading walk from Matlack.

Lou Brock's force-paly bouncer brought in McNertney and, with Brock breaking on a pitch, Julian Javier smacked a single to center. Maxville scored and so did Brock when centerfielder Don Hahn bobbled the ball.

Duffy Dyer, the villain of Tuesday's 3-2 St. Louis loss with a game-winning blooper, nearly did it again before 30,796 witnesses.

With one away, Tommie Agee doubled to center when Cruz missed a diving try. After Cleon Jones bounced out, Donn Clendenon was hit by a pitch and Bob Aspromonte walked, loading the bases.

Then Dyer swung on a curve and bounced toward shortstop Maxvill. Ooops! The ball skipped over Maxie's head and the Mets had two runs, reducing their gap to just 3-2.

"What can you do?" Carlton said. "Maxie jumped as high as he could. I tried to pitch deliberately to them."

Then Torre delivered the game's decisive wallop, a two-run homer in the fifth off righthander Charlie Williams, to give Carlton an 8-11 career record against the Mets.

If Carlton had developed a complex against them, can you blame him? After all, he struck out 19 Mets two years ago — and still lost. Not this time, though.

Luis Melendez walked and Torre came up. "He threw me a high fastball on the first pitch," Torre said, "then a high curve. When I saw it, I hoped I wouldn't get too anious."

Torre, losing two points of his National League-leading average to .368, settled for just 1-for-4 Wednesday. The Cardinals lead 2-1 in the series.

Two of the five bases on balls Carlton issued caused him some uneasiness in the seventh, when pinch-batter Jerry Grote rolled into a double play and Tim Foli scored.

Then Cruz, hitting .237, supplied additional elbow room in the eighth when he crashed Jim McAndrew's first pitch far into the right-field bullpen. It was the wiry kid's second of the season, and the Cardinals' third success in 11 tries against New York was packed away.

Pitching coach Barney Schultz glowed over Carlton's performance.

"he had to be strong," said Heer Schultz. "Steve threw 152 pitches and 62 were curves. Most clubs are fastball-hitting teams, anyway. Besides, he'd made up his mind to go with his curve against the Mets."

Across the clubhouse, Torre was extolling the virtues of his water diet. "I get hundreds of letters a week for my diet," he said. "My stomach really has shrunk."

As long as his average doesn't shrink, he's happy. He now trails Willie Stargell in RBIs, 91-86, and has a 10-game batting streak. "The trick is to avoid long dry spells, andI've been lucky that way.

PITCHING -- Jim Slaton, Brewers, hurled Milwaukee's 17th shutout of the season, stopping the Boston Red Sox on three hits 5-0.

HITTING -- Frank Robinson, Orioles, slammed a three-run homer in the bottom of the ninth inning, lifting Baltimore to a 3-2 victory over the Oakland A's.

Blue Seeks 20th Win Tonight

BALTIMORE (AP) — Vida Blue, Oakland's sensational southpaw, goes after his 20th victory of the season tonight as the Athletics try to salvage the final game of a four-game series against Baltimore.

Blue, who celebrated his 22nd birthday on Wednesday, has beaten the Orioles twice this season by 1-0 and 2-1 scores.

The hurler, the loser of three decisions, edged Pat Dobson 1-0 early in the season in Oakland and topped Jim Palmer, tonight's opponent, 2-1 in Baltimore.

Oakland Manager Dick Williams said although Blue probably will pitch about 300 innings this season, he did not believe the youngster had been overworked.

"Only once has he thrown more than 150 pitches in one game," Williams said. "His average is about 120.

"Most young pitchers hurt their arms throwing sliders. Vida doesn't throw one, and I don't want him to, either. He has a smooth motion, not herky-jerky."

Colts Favored In Star Clash

CHICAGO (AP) — There is a popular theory that football games are won between the lines but the recent College All Star battles indicate they are usually lost in the secondary.

The All Stars haven't knocked off the professional champions in this midsummer classic since 1963 and each year it seems that a Joe Namath, Bart Starr or Len Dawson has amazing success in passing against the collegiates.

This year, the All Stars have a host of speedy talent ready to stop Baltimore and Earl Morall, the 38-year-old quarterback who came off the bench in the Super Bowl and led the Colts to a 16-13 triumph over Dallas.

Blanton Collier, retired coach of the Cleveland Browns, making his debut as All Star mentor, has four cornerbacks to patrol the airways and he says "they all have speed."

This speed—belonging to Len Dunlap of North Texas State, Clarence Scott of Kansas State, Isaac Thomas of Bishop College and Norm Thompson of Utah— will be on display—and on the spot—Friday night at Soldier Field in the 38th renewal of the series. The pros hold a 29-9-2 series edge. The game will be televised nationally by ABC at 9:30 p.m. EDT.

It will be up to Dunlap, Scott, Thomas and Thompson to stop Baltimore's receiving corps of Ray Perkins, Roy Jefferson and Eddie Hinton.

Dunlap and Thompson share an NCAA record for returning interceptions for touchdowns while Scott's coach at Kansas State, Vince Gibson, called his man the finest defensive player in the nation.

A man who may take exception of that remark will be safety for the All Stars. He is Jack Tatum, twice an All American and the anchor of Ohio State's defense in 1968-6970, three seasons in which the Bucks lost only twice.

Tatum will be responsible for shutting off Baltimore's tight ends, John Mackey and Tom Mitchell.

Young Pitches Stars Past Portageville

Jeff Young fired a one-hit shutout in last night's first round play of the 16th annual 9 and 10 year old Sikeston Little League baseball tournament to send the Sikeston All Stars into a 10-0 triumph over Portageville.

Sikeston sent seven runners across home plate in the first inning.

Bloomfield, the squad that eliminated the Sikeston Aces in opening play Monday night, continued its drive for the tourney title with an extra inning, 12-11 victory over Charleston in last night's second game.

Harts Bread and Collins Construction, members of the Sikeston Little League, collide tonight at 6:30 p.m. to decide the consolation championship of the Musial league. Both teams have one victory in the three-game series. Bell City and Illmo-Scott City were scheduled to play in the early time period, but Bell city withdrew from the tourney and the playoff was scheduled in its place.

Chaffee and Bertrand meet in the second game at 8 p.m. in a quarterfinal bout.

Three hits, including a double from Sikeston's Deal, three walks, and a Portageville error highlighted the seven run scoring first inning for Sikeston. After the Stars seven runs, Young took over for the squad and held the Portageville offense to four base runners.

Portageville's only hit came in the first inning where Steve Fisher connected for a double.

Sikeston's Mark Lee and David Wilkerson connected for two of the Stars' five hits and scored five of the squads' 10 runs. Young connected for a single. Russell Deal and Steve Burgess recorded the final two hits.

Jeff Killion took the loss.

In the second game, Bloomfield battled Charleston for eight innings before winning pitcher Jackson reached first on a single and scored the winning run for Bloomfield.

Charleston banged out 11 hits in its one run loss, including the first inning grand slam from catcher Purnell. Purnell's four-base blast lifted Charleston into an early 6-4 lead. Bloomfield's five runs in the second frame gave the winners a 9-6 advantage. Six of the 13 Bloomfield hits came in the first two innings which included doubles from Croden, Jackson, Roberts, and Sharp.

Jackson paced the victors hitting with three hits and tally. Croden belted two scored three of the squads 12 doubles. Ross and Rickman runs, including the winning each scored three rungs.

Carman Springs Hunt Cancelled

JEFFERSON CITY— James Brewer, Supervisor of the Mark Twain National Forest, has asked the Missouri Department of Conservation to withdraw plans for a primitive weapons deer hunt on Carman Spring Refuge in Howell County. The Department agrees that the regulation authorizing the hunt was a result of a misunderstanding between the Department and the National Forest.

"We are in favor of primitive weapons hunting," Brewer said, "but believe that further consideration of this area is needed. Carman Spring Refuge has great value as a remote area to be enjoyed by nonconsumptive users, such as nature photographers, bird watchers, and hikers.

"The Forest Service has been collecting habitat data from which the Department and the Forest intend to develop a management plan for the area and does not feel that the area should be open to hunting until the plan has been formulated.

"All interests should have an opportunity to participate in completing the plan. Perhaps primitive weapons hunting will be one of the suitable activities."

Apollo 15 Crewmen Are Study in Contrast

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Apollo 15 crewmen are a study in contrast: There's an all-American military man; a quiet, reserved plumber's son; a mod-dressing, fast-talking bachelor.

David Randolph Scott, 39-year-old commander of Apollo 15, is an Air Force general's son who has been aimed at a military career since boyhood.

The 6foot tall, blue-eyed spaceman was born on a military base, got his middle name from an Air Force base and spent his boyhood in military schools.

Scott graduated from the U.S. Military Academy at West Point fifth in a class of 633 in 1954. He took his commission in the Air Force and became a jet pilot.

The Air Force selected him for advanced schooling and Scott earned two master's degrees from Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

He graduated at the top of his class at the Air Force test pilot school and was snapped up by the space agency for astronaut training.

Scott demonstrated his cool on Gemini 8 in 1966 when the spacecraft went out of control. He and astronaut Neil A. Armstrong regained control and brought it to a safe emergency landing.

In 1969, Scott was command module pilot of Apollo 9 and was the first astronaut to fly alone in the Apollo command ship.

Scott is married to the former Ann Lurton Ott of San Antonio. They have two children, Tracy, 10, and Douglas, 7.

The astronaut is known as one of the strongest men in the spacemen's corps. A physical fitness buff, he runs two miles a day.

James B. Irwin Jr., 41-yearold lunar module pilot, survived a near fatal airplane crash in 1961 to win later selection as an astronaut.

Apollo 15 is the first space flight for the Air Force lieutenant colonel.

The son of a plumber, Irwin grew up in Salt Lake City and sought a military career. He attended the U.S. Naval Academy and took his commission in the Air Force.

He became an Air Force jet pilot and later graduated from the test pilot school.

In the 1961 accident, Irwin broke both legs, his jaw and suffered a severe concussion.

The accident, he says, "kind of wiped me out. I never expected I'd ever be able to qualify for the astronaut program."

But he recovered and was selected in 1966.

Irwin is married to the former Mary Ellen Monroe of Corvallis, Ore. They have four children, Joy, 11, Jill, 10, James, 8, and Jan, 6.

The astronaut, who stands 5-foot-8 is a quiet, reserved man who favors dark suits and colorful shirts and wears his black hair long and combed straight back.

Alfred M. Worden, 39, is the command module pilot.

The Air Force major is a talkative, mod-dressing bachelor who dates television stars, stewardesses and secretaries.

He is a graduate of the U.S. Military Academy and a veteran jet pilot Apollo 15 will be his first space flight.

Worden grew up on a farm near Jackson, Mich., and is the son of a movie projectionist who still works at the Plaza Theater in Jackson.

Worden is a racing fan and from time to time has taken the wheel of racing cars. He drives a white sports car.

He has had a lifelong interest in music and is an accomplished pianist. He recently bought a grand piano which takes up most of the living room in his bachelor apartment here.

Worden was selected as an astronaut in 1966.

He was formerly married and is the father of two daughters, Merrill, 13, and Alison, 11. The girls live with their mother, who has remarried.

Mail Box

Dear Mr. Blanton:

One of the local officials is quoted as having said "I am going to get Dr. Terhune's license revoked in the nastiest manner possible, no matter what it takes to do it". My attorney volunteers the information that "someone in the medical profession is trying to frame you". Some of my patients state that they are willing to testify under oath that they were hired to obtain signatures on letters harmful to me. Now, I am left with the impression that the Standard is about to publish what sounds like a conglomerate fact and fancy, of rumor and slander and backbiting; a compendium of past mistakes as seen from the worst possible viewpoint. Truly, my cup runneth over!

I have made mistakes, but I have tried to make amends; I have tried to be honest, ethical, and morally beyond reproach -- and have been accused of every crime in the book, and probably some that aren't. Try making a list of the things I'm accused of doing, then ask yourself if one lifetime would be long enough to accomplish all these evil deeds....or if you are interested in rumors as such, drop by and we can compare notes--without doubt there are a few accusations of murder that you aren't familiar with, a few banks supposedly robbed that you haven't heard of, a few felony charges of which you are unaware.

One of the biggest mistakes was in giving house room to my daughter, who is a psychopath, and to some of the children of my first marriage, who were raised by their mother--much safer to lie down in a den of rattlesnakes than to associate with this group.

If you are interested in the truth, I will give you the facts as I see them on anything within reason; if not, please publish a notice of my withdrawal from the field of medicine and anything associated with it, along with your compendium. It just isn't worth the effort.

Sincerely,
Neil C. Terhune, M.D.

My Dear Mr. Blanton:

As Almight GOD' I greet you.

Almost two- thousand years of confinement has elapsed for Me. The dank, dark, musty corridors of Time were not to My liking. Now, My fetters are broken and cast to the ground!

I Am again here, on earth, in My beloved Son's flesh to dictate letters to editors and publishers over the world. I Am thrilled to be Alive - Realistically - to accomplish this chore.

I want to express My gratitude to the newspaper personnel who have written to Us. We try to answer every letter. Perfect Love will cast out fear and the shackles of bondage are broken. Love will triumph in the end. The escalation of Love will quell a broken heart and the recipient can conquer forlornness.

The wings of Love are free and the enlightenment of chance is pursued by happiness. MY Love is complete in ecstasy upon a humble servant of lust. My Love is clean and not dejected.

May the chaos of a world aflame be engulfed in My endless Love, so that a brighter tomorrow will ensue and the light of Love will be lit in every blessed heart throughout the world.

As your One and only Living GOD, I have dictated this Holy Letter to you through My blessed Son who wrote down My Very Sacred Words. May Our Love endure throughout Eternity as I close with these Precious Words. Never, at anytime, will My Holy Name be written on paper. My humble Son will sign this Blessed Letter to keep the flame of Love alive in your heart.

Prayerfully yours,

Billings to Hear Hayti Vote Contest

KENNETT -- Circuit Judge William H. Billings has been appointed special judge to hear an election contest suit filed by former Hayti Mayor Lee Roy Bain, who was defeated in his bid for re-election last April by only two votes.

Billings was appointed by the Pemiscot county circuit court following a change of judge motion filed by Attorney Flake McHaney, who is representing Mayor Harry B. Dowdy, who defeated Bain. Prior to the motion, Judge William Ragland was scheduled to hear the case.

The suit was filed following the April 6 city election.

Boeing Designs New 747

SEATTLE (AP) — Boeing Co. says it has plans for a new 747 jetliner with a capacity of 1,000 passengers, more than twice as many as the largest 747 jumbo jet now flying is designed to carry.

The distinctive hump at the front of current 747s, which now provides room for an upper-deck lounge, would be extended to the tail of the aircraft to create upper and lower passenger decks about 230 feet long.

Design studies for the enlarged 747 were unveiled Tuesday by Rowland E. Brown, chief of product development for the firm's 747 Division.

Planners envision production of the first 1,000-passenger 747 by 1980, Brown aaid, but a version with a capacity of 750 passengers could emerge sooner from the firm's plant at Everett, Wash.

The $20-million Boeing 747 is designed for a maximum of 490 passengers.

MOPAC Income Up Increase

ST. LOUIS -- The Missouri Pacific System's consolidated net income for the first half of this year rose to $14,382,800 from the $10,008,853 reported in the same period of 1970, Downing B. Jenks, president, announced today.

Net income of $7,662,449 in the second quarter was $2,749,923 above that of the same period last year, he said.

Operating revenues for the first six months increased $30,106,954 to a total of $295,284,141, compared with $265,177,187 last year. Operating expenses of $227,689,794 were $19,498,458 above those of the 1970 period, largely as a result of a continuing spiral in the cost of wages and materials and supplies.

Revenues for the second quarter of the year were $151,461,257 a rise of $15,704,162, while operating expenses of $117,198,382 were up $9,920,776.

DISASTER AVERTED

CARLE PLACE, N.Y. (AP) A possible train wreck involving some 1,000 commuters may have been averted by a sharp-eyed motorman on the 4:23 pm electric Long Island Railroad train from New York to Huntington.

"There is a steel bar across the tracks and it's touching the third rail," he told a conductor as he brought the 10-car train to a halt.

"There will be a slight delay," said the conductor over the intercom. "We will have to shut off the power to remove a steel bar from the tracks."

The train arrived 15 minutes late but passengers were relieved to know the motorman was on the alert.

LIKE SOME partially submerged monster, string of floats snakes across the Caspian Sea near the Soviet offshore Bakhar oil and gas deposits. They support a pipeline under construction which will replace tankers and, Soviet authorities hope, further oil pollution of the shallow Caspian.

The Payroll Savings Plan is for people who hate to think about saving.

If you're one of those people who needs to save but doesn't like to think about it, the Payroll Savings Plan is a perfect solution to your problem.

You only have to think about saving once and that's when you join.

After that, money is added to your savings every payday. Whether you remember or not.

While you're thinking about other things, your money will be adding up faster than ever before. Now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds. E Bonds now pay 5½% when held to a maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra ½% is payable as a bonus at maturity. This applies to all bonds issued since June 1, 1970 . . . with a comparable improvement for all older bonds.

Start building a nest egg the easy way:

Sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan. Then forget it.

Take stock in America.
Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, July 29, the 210th day of 1971. There are 155 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1940, the allout Luftwaffe blitz against Britain began.

On this date—

In 1883, Italy's fascist dictator Benito Mussolini was born in Dovia, Italy.

In 1914, transcontinental telephone service began with a conversation between New York and San Francisco.

In 1920 air mail service between New York and San Francisco began.

In 1945 Britain's new prime minister, Clement Attlee, replaced Winston Churchill at the Potsdam conference.

In 1946 a peace conference opened in Paris after World War II, with 21 nations in attendance.

In 1967, scores of American servicemen were killed in an explosion and fire aboard the U.S. aircraft carrier "Forrestal" off North Vietnam.

Ten years ago: President Kennedy's disarmament adviser, John McCloy, flew back from Moscow to Washington, interrupting a meeting with Soviet deputy foreign minister Zorin. He reportedly told Kennedy the Kremlin was angered by the U.S. stand on Germany and the Berlin question.

Five years ago: It was announced that an American reconnaissance plane missing over South America had been found wrecked in the mountains of Bolivia.

Other products made from recycled glass are new glass containers, building bricks, glass insulated wool, aerated concrete, and acoustic tiles.

"I had luck because of the numerous businessmen in town who had been connected with Chamber activities. They helped me out."

He said the hardest thing was to get established in the field which a Chamber of Commerce operates.

Johnson commented on his greatest satisfaction:

"This is gonna make a lot of people mad. Probably, as far as the community goes, it was helping establish SEMO Aviation in Malden. It was a lot of hard work but I enjoyed it."

When asked about his great disappointment he replied:

"I don't want to get me shot" and added:

"The few people in the city that I have met, and they admit it, that don't know of the activities of the Chamber, especially since everything the Malden Chamber of Commerce does is given wide coverage in the news media."

The thief entered the building by breaking a rear window and reaching inside to open a door. The thief stacked 22 new tires into a truck van at the rear of the building. Police said apparently they could not start the truck's engine and abandoned the tires.

Why?

"There are several reasons," he said, turning a cigarette between his fingers, "and I'm not sure I can explain them all.

"For one thing, I was tired of the routine, and for another, the step (working for the bank) offered more financially."

During his five-year banking career, he completed a three-year course at the Louisiana State University School of Banking of the South, attending during the summer and supplementing with correspondence courses.

In October, 1970, he rejoined the school system as director of secondary education, with the understanding that he would become superintendent July 1, 1971.

Why would a man leave a relatively secure position in an established firm to become a school superintendent?

"Again," he said, "for several reasons. I missed the association with young people and people associated with education and administrative education offers an opportunity to make contributions in an intangible way.

"I know this has been said many times, but as I look around this community, I see young people who attended while I was at the junior high school. Some of them, at that time, I saw no promise for, but today they're valuable members of the community -- good fathers, good providers. So you can, after a time, see the fruits of your labor."

One of Harbin's assets when the time came for selecting a new superintendent was his record at the junior high school.

"They knew me," he said, "and knew what I wanted for the system."

"The eight months you served as director of secondary education," I questioned, "sounds like an apprenticeship. What took place during that time?"

"The changes in education fields during five years," he explained, "were vast. The staff had increased to about 350 certificated teachers. And the public had changed, too. We're dealing with an accountability-conscious public now. Ten years ago, or more, when an administrator or teacher made a decision, people accepted that decision without question. That is no longer the case. Today we must be specific and above average in decision making.

"I had to make some changes in myself, too. When I was principal, even though I had a very capable staff of teachers, I kept most of the decision-making in my own office. When a child was punished, I did it. If there were any parent conflicts, I wanted to handle them personally. For a several year period, I can't recall sitting down to an evening meal with my family without a telephone interruption. So, if I had an attribute, I was conscientious, but not only is that method not workable or practical, it'll kill you! That was an outstanding thing about Twitty -- his ability to surround himself with good people and if they weren't good, he made them good."

"Were you tough on your staff? I asked.

"No," he replied, "I don't think so. Sometimes I was abrupt and blunt and I later regretted it."

Harbin asked me to sit in an administrative staff meeting made up of principals and the school district business manager, Charles Simpson. A steady flow of ideas and last minute preparations ensued.

Afterwards, Harbin commented, "This is what it's all about -- encouraging the staff to try new things. We cannot be afraid to try changes. Our schools offer 117 curriculum units, more than most other schools. But we can't stop there, it's not good enough. We need to add quality to quantity.

"And the new learning center at Morehouse -- the plans for that include an autonomous unit, complete with four special education teachers, an industrial arts teacher, home economics specialist and qualified guidance counselor. We want to provide a place for students with marked learning problems to branch out from the mainstream of studies and meet their individual needs. We want them to stay there only what time they can't succeed in the mainstream learning program."

That is the basis for his philosophy.

"The individual worth of a man," Harbin said, "is the most important thing in the world. If kids break windows, there's a reason for it. We need to look behind what people do, reasons for what they do. It's up to us to respond, find out why, rather than render judgment."

Additional plans for the future, he says, will come about as needs arise.

With teaching techniques changing every day, Harbin reads at least 10 professional magazines a week, photostats and sends articles of special interest to his teachers.

Communications, he says, can always be improved, within the institution as well as outside. A more detailed budget breakdown is planned for the public as are regularly scheduled press to inform the people.

It's easy to envision a man of Harbin's physical stature on the golf course or in a fishing boat, but his favorite avocation is reading.

"I read anything," he said, in a lighter mood, "I sometimes gather up volumes of literature on a subject and study for several weeks, then I get interested in something like "The Godfather". But I'm not much of a poetry fan, primarily because I don't always understand, or take the time to understand it."

He is confessed lover of country and western music but says that few of hs close friends share that interest.

The Harbin family are Baptists and attend Trinity Church.

"I had little formal religious training when I was a child," he said. "I began to develop an interest in it during my last two years in college.

"I have deep personal feelings about religion. I would like for the impact of the life of Jesus Christ to have a bearing on my relationships with other people."

His three children are like preachers' kids, he says, and think perhaps he and their mother are remnants of the middle ages. Julie is 17, Ken, 15, and Laura is 12.

"We have excellent communication, though," he added. "I have to stop and put myself in their place sometimes to be sure I'm being fair."

"I tried to prepare them for this job, too."

"It's rather a fishbowl existence, isn't it?" I prompted.

"That's exactly what it is," he answered.

"Anything you'd like to add?" I had already made him late for a golf match. "What about the students personally?"

"One thing," he replied firmly. "A school administrator should never sell the feelings of kids short. They have some good ideas and I intend to give them decision making opportunities."

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Navy Designers May Be To Blame For Steam Death Of 5 Sailors; Ford Executive Who Warned GM Of Corvair Hazard Is Downgraded; Henry Ford II Disassociates Company From Warning Of Rollover

Receptive to New Ideas

Changing World in Mind of Sikeston School Head

IN A QUIET MOMENT, Harbin reviews a staff meeting report. "I'm here by 7:15 every morning," he said. "I have a tremendous amount of excess energy. I'm almost never still."

By JUDY GAZETTE

For those who believe in fate, it seems that 42-year-old Sam Harbin has finally been seated in destiny's chair and for those who don't believe in such things, Sikeston has simply selected a school superintendent.

A brief examination would reveal that Harbin's success or failure cannot be measured at once. If, in fact, the new school year is a good one -- progressive and financially sound -- some will say that shadows of the Lynn Twitty administration still loom over the office. On the other hand, if detectible errors are made, Harbin is sure to be blamed.

He is not visibly apprehensive about these possibilities. He is straightforward and outspoken about future plans for the school system.

"I didn't come into this office on the premise of making gross changes," he said, "we have an outstanding school system, and I want to keep it that way."

Harbin is a Southeast Missouri native, born in Puxico, Aug. 22, 1928, youngest of eight children. In 1931, Wesley and Ada Shelton Harbin moved their family to Bakersfield, Calif., where Sam graduated from Kern County Union high school. He lettered in basketball and track.

"I wasn't a star player," he said, "and I was just an average student."

He attended Bakersfield Junior College one year, then moved back to Missouri with his parents and attended Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau.

His first teaching job was in Puxico in 1949. He taught fourth grade for one year and three months before being drafted into the army in 1950.

He served as a first sargeant in the 990th signal operations corps, training troops in Ft. Gordon, Ga.

"I never left Ft. Gordon," he grinned upon recollection.

After his army discharge in 1952, he married Dell Rinehart of Sedalia, Ill.

"I had met her four years before," he said quietly, "while visiting my brother, David. She was 16 years old then, and 20 when we married."

Harbin accepted a teaching job that year at Illmo- Fornfelt school.

"I was actually working at three things," he admitted. "After school, I worked at the Martin Oil Company in Cape Girardeau from 4 p.m. until 10 p.m. as a service station attendant, and I also took correspondence courses from Southeast Missouri State."

In 1955 he graduated from college.

His first certified teaching position was in Cypress, Ill., where he was principal of an elementary school, taught eighth grade and coached.

"I hadn't always wanted to be a school administrator," he confessed, "it just happened that way."

He does not come from a family of educators.

"You see," he said, "my family was extremely poor. Of my five brothers, only one has a college degree and one other completed high school. I hardly knew the older ones because they left home to work. At that time, my parents would have been just as pleased if I had been a farm worker, anything honorable."

"Didn't they encourage you?" I asked.

"Yes, but only passively," he said. "And I don't mean that cruelly, they just didn't realize the value of education. But my eldest brother did lend encouragement."

Calvin E. Harbin is chairman of the division of education at Ft. Hayes College in Kansas. He graduated from the University of Missouri at Columbia and is a colonel in the army reserve.

Harbin earned a masters degree in educational administration and 35 hours credit beyond that at Southern Illinois University in Carbondale. His post graduate work included supportive studies in guidance and statistics.

In June, 1958, Harbin was hired by Twitty as principal of the Airport School.

"Did you intend to stay in Sikeston?" I asked.

"No," he answered quickly, "I came here to learn as much as I could within three or four years. I had heard that this was an excellent system."

In 1961 he was made principal of the junior high school, a position he held four years.

In June, 1965, Harbin joined the Bank of Sikeston as a vice president in charge of public relations.

See No. 4 Page 12.

"I HADN'T ALWAYS WANTED TO BE A SCHOOL ADMINISTRATOR," Supt. of Schools Sam Harbin said.

Five Held After Two Breakins

Four Sikeston boys and an Altenburg, Mo., juvenile boy are being held in the city jail this morning on charge of investigation of burglary.

Byron Klingel 17, of 245 Watson, Truman Medley, 17, of 313 Adams, David Lee Campbell, 18, of 235 Watson, and Calvin Adams, 18, of 127 Fourth St., along with the juvenile were arrested early this morning in an investigation of two break-ins last night.

Tidwell's Gulf Service Station at 621 North Main was entered early this morning and $55 in currency taken from the

News Around The Clock

Getting the news before the public is a solemn responsibility. It used to be that Sikeston was sufficiently served with weekly news coverage. Then came The Daily Standard. And The Daily Standard has taken another step. The newspaper now offers around the clock news service in the form of Telenews. Just call 471-6666. Continue watching this space.

BILL JOHNSON has served as Malden Chamber of Commerce manager for almost a year.

Chamber Toots Horn But Some Do Not Hear

By CHARLES BRADY

MALDEN -- The Malden Chamber of Commerce existed without a manager from December of 1969, to August of 1970 then Bill Johnson, 49, came along.

"Various cities knew Malden used to have one and they were passing us by because of a lack of correspondence and communication," Johnson said.

Bill J. Crabtree was the first manager of the Chamber of Commerce and his secretary, Betty Dean, and the present secretary, LaFern Young, ran the office between Crabtree and Johnson. Crabtree was manager from August of 1968, to December of 1969.

"The chamber of commerce board of directors felt there was a need for a public relations department," he said.

"The board of directors came to the decision that the chamber should be functioning beyond what it was. Ronnie Dye, president of the Chamber of Commerce, felt there was a need for a fulltime manager since Malden was involved in city growth and new businesses."

Three or four men were considered for the managerial post, Johnson explained, before he was interviewed and endorsed by a chamber of commerce committee.

"The reason they wanted a local man was because he would understand local problems and the involvement of the job better than an outsider," he explained.

He said Poplar Bluff had a local man as manager and he stayed at that position 18 or more years.

Johnson was born Dec. 19, 1921, in Deering and moved to Malden in 1929. He has a wife, Wilma; a son, Stephen Johnson of Orlando, Fla.; and two step-daughters, Dianna Walter, 15, and Judy Walter, 19.

"I guess it's partly because of my children that I am so enthusiastic about the chamber of commerce sponsored toy drive each Christmas," he explained.

Johnson, a retired communication technicians chief in naval electronics from 1941 to 1962, said the managers job was "very difficult" when he first started.

"There was no one around to ask how to do the job," he said. "so I had to go ahead

THIS 10-OUNCE RIGID PLASTIC BOTTLE being developed by a chemical company for Coca-Cola may be on the market in five years. The plastic produces non-toxic fumes when burned and reduces to one one-hundredth of its normal size. The plastic is difficult to crack or break, and broken pieces do not have edges as sharp as glass. A similar product is being tested by Pepsi-Cola. The bottles are designed to solve the litter problem.

Third in a Series

Redemption Center Called Stopgap

Editor's note: This is the third of a series of articles on the glass disposal problem in the Sikeston area.

By JUDY STROUP

Bill Burch, manager of the Coca -Cola bottling plant, termed a proposed glass redemption center, a "stopgap measure" to ease the glass disposal problem.

The center would include facilities for crushing waste glass and shipping it to a re-melting plant.

Burch said anti - litter laws and responsible solid waste management are long -term answers to the litter problem.

Burch said the center will fail "unless we get some concerned groups to back us."

Sikeston supermarket managers may be among those in favor of the project.

"One cent per pound is pretty good money if you think about it," Roy Marks of Marks and Stearnes supermarket, said.

"That (glass redemption) would eliminate glass at the city dump.

"We don't have room for a distributing place to receive bottles, but we would be in favor of it if it didn't interfere with our operation," Orville Shamblin, manager of Sikeston IGA added.

A similar view was expressed by Lawrence Cleek, manager of A and P, supermarket who said, "I would participate in it."

Phil Barket, manager of Barkett's Big Star, commented, "Now that bottles are a nickel (deposit) it presents a new problem to us and the customer. People who will buy non - returnables will keep buying them. I think redemption would get old and would stop."

"The center would be helpful, but people here are not as conscious."

City manager Raymert Miller agreed with Barkett:

"The thing is to make people conscious of it, but I don't know how to do it."

Bob Ralph, manager of Ralph Distributing Co., suggested a citizen's meeting to alert the community to the project.

"If we had one big clean -up, it would be the biggest asset to new industry possible," Ralph said.

"If we started it, it would grow to other towns, and Sikeston would be able to point to what had been done and ask other towns why they hadn't done something."

P. H. Riggs, executive committee member for Pepsi - Cola Co. at Malden, said a number of pitfalls could be avoided if sponsors of the proposed glass redemption center could visit a center already in operation.

Pepsi officials have indicated a desire to contribute funds for the project,

Riggs explained that "beverage companies are getting the blame for litter," and that was the reason for their interest in glass redemption.

One beverage company, a brewery in San Francisco, paved the parking lot at its plant with asphalt containing 336,000 waste bottles. The glass was collected by citizens

Madrid Levee Enlarged

NEW MADRID -- A project to enlarge and raise the grade of the Mississippi river levee is underway seven miles east of New Madrid near the junction of county roads WW and P.

The project, under the direction of the Memphis district, Corps of Engineers, is part of a program to rework the front line of the Mississippi river. The Memphis district extends from Cairo, to Rosedale, Miss.

St. John's Levee District is the sponsoring agency for the job, and William Crumpecker and Sons, Morehouse, are contractors. Skip Crumpecker and Buddy Monday are superintendents, and Brad Crumpecker is assistant superintendant at the site. Cary Print, a student at Southeast Missouri State College of Cape Girardeau is engineering trainee.

A similar job is being carried on 40 miles upstream near Wyatt.

Over 697,000 cubic yards of earth will be moved near New Madrid in the effort to raise the levee six or seven feet above its existing level. Total contract price is $429,640, or 47 cents per cubic yard. Construction may be completed by next spring.

"Land behind the front line levee formerly was used as a floodway when the river reached critical stage," L. A. Brandon, project engineer for the Corps of Engineers, said.

"However, land is precious now -- $400 to $500 per acre -- and the thought of utilizing land for a floodway is obsolete," Brandon explained.

Brandon, originally from Ridgely, began his engineering career 30 years ago on a similar job.

"One of the first jobs I ever worked with was this company," he said.

"They were building a levee at Osceola, Ark., then," Brandon recalled.

A strip of wooded area, approximately four miles long, adjacent to the levee, is being cleared to make room for the new levee.

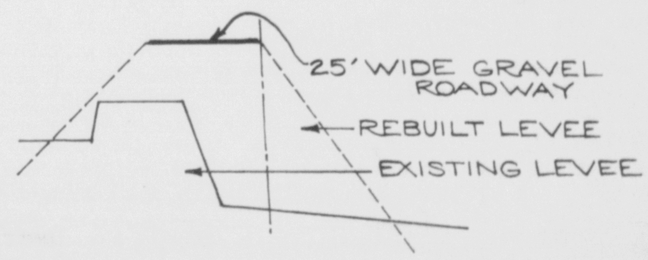
As the timber is cleared, it is dragged into piles and burned. Tires were formerly used to keep timber burning, but the corps of Engineers no longer encourages this practice, due to the smoke and odor.

A new clause added to Corps -- endorsed contracts provides for environmental protection. The contractor may have to go to additional trouble to save existing trees and shrubs, and dispose of materials in a manner that will not pollute waterways or endanger fish or wildlife.

Once the timber is removed, large Euclid scrapers move in to haul dirt from the cleared land to the levee.

The scrapers have a capacity of 18 cubic yards per haul, and when loaded, must be pushed by a powerful D-8 Caterpillar. The massive Euclids have difficulty maintaining traction on even the slightest incline.

"It's just like ants carrying off a slice of bread," one observer said.



THIS DIAGRAM indicates the shape of things to come for the Mississippi river levee seven miles east of New Madrid. (Related picture on page 12).

Building of Trade Skill Center to Start Aug. 9

HOWARDVILLE— Construction will start Aug. 9 on a $3.4 million vocational technical skill center for New Madrid county R-I enlarged school district.

The school is being built on an 80-acre tract, south of New Madrid, at the junction of highway 61 and Interstate 55.

Contract approval was given Monday by the Economic Development Administration, which is providing a $1,624,000 grant for the job training facility to serve high school students, dropouts, and adults.

Voters in the district approved a $1.1 million bond issue for funds for the center.

Brown Construction Co., Dexter, was awarded the building contract for $2,346,000.

Plans for a sloping landscape in front of the center were changed, Dr. George S. Reuter Jr., superintendent, said, to permit continued excavation of an Indian village by University of Missouri archaeologists of Columbia in the southwest corner of the site.

MENTAL WARFARE ENGAGES US

When you use words to mean the opposite of what they normally stand for, your purpose must be to confuse, befuddle, frustrate or inhibit. This deliberate misuse of words has been characteristic of Soviet leaders for many years, but especially during and since World War II.

For example, "peace" means war. When a nation defends itself against Communist "liberators," it becomes an "aggressor." If it fights back with real vigor, then it is guilty of "escalating" the conflict. To attribute any kind of aggression to the Communist attacker is to be guilty of "slander," and in some cases to call a Communist a Communist is to risk character assassination as a "McCarthyist" and a spinner of "foul fabrications."

Alas, it is not merely foreign Reds who pursue the line that any kind of attack is the best defense. Their mental and moral warfare has been carried on inside every country, with some highly respected organs of information and opinion using the strangetalk or defeattalk or weirddiction in their news and editorial columns or broadcasts.

Mental warfare is the name for it. It is waged mentally and morally. It can maim as surely as bullets or shrapnel, and it can do it to millions, not mere battalions.

HAIL, NOBLE DOG

Word has only just come that July is — or was — national hot dog month.

But better late than never. There's still time to salute the not-so-lowly wiener, frank, red hot or what have you whilst pondering these impressive statistics from the National Hot Dog and Sausage Council.

The hot dog has come a long way since it was introduced at the St. Louis Exposition in 1904. In fact, enough hot dogs are produced every year in the United States alone to reach to the moon and back 2½ times.

Since July is national "hot dog" month, we'd better get on the ball and find out some interesting things about the hot dog.

American writers have given a variety of names to the hot dog: frankfurters, franks, wieners, red hots, pups, hot pups, viennas, and wienies. Hot dogs covered with chili sauce are known as "chihuahuas" in some areas. In other areas, hot dogs smothered in onions are called "poodles." A "choriso" is a highly-spiced hot dog, sold either fresh or dried in the Southwestern portions of the United States.

There is a hot dog stand on Coney Island in New York that sells more hot dogs than any other such stand in the world ...

In the United States alone, 1,485,510,000 pounds of hot dogs are manufactured a year, which comes to 14,855,100,000 hot dogs, or 40,698,900 produced every day!

In 1970, Americans ate an estimated 14,8 billion hot dogs, or 72 per capita. The projected consumption for 1971 is 15.9 billion hot dogs!

Production technology has kept up with consumer demand. In Montreal there is equipment capable of producing 72,000 hot dogs per hour; and a Detroit company comes in second with a machine that produced 62,000 per hour.

The "marriage" of the hot dog to the elongated bun is said to have taken place at the St. Louis Louisiana Purchase Exposition of 1904. A concessionaire loaned white gloves to his customers so they could hold his piping-hot wieners. Many of his gloves were never returned — and his overhead was running high. In desparation, he turned to a baker for help. A bun was produced to fit the meat — and the hot dog sandwich as we know it was born.

The term "hot dog" was coined in 1900. Concessionaire Harry Stevens had his salesmen sell hot dogs from portable hot-water tanks at the New York Polo Grounds, yelling "They-re red hot! Get your red hot dachsund sausages!" Sports humorist Tad Dorgan took the idea and created a cartoon of a talking sausage. But he wasn't quite sure of how to spell dachshund, and so dubbed it "Hot Dog."

Finally, for those who may consider hot dogs too plebeian for their tastes, be advised that hot dogs and champagne are Marlene Dietrich's favorite meal.

You can't get much classier than that.

SCOUT'S HONOR

The Boy Scout movement, which is the largest and most widely known youth organization in the world, holds its quadrennial get-together from Aug. 2-10 on the shores of Lake Tanuki, at the western foot of Mount Fuji in Japan. Close to 20,000 boys between the ages of 14 and 18, resplendent with badges and World Jamboree. This year the theme of the meeting will be "For Understanding."

With nearly 12 million members in more than 100 countries, scouting has come a long way. It began with 20 boys in an experimental camp held during the first days of August 1907 on Bronsea Island off the coast of England. The camp was so successful that its organizer, Maj. Gen. Robert S. S. Baden-Powell, found himself leading a worldwide movement. His handbook, Scouting for Boys (1908), became an international best seller. At the first World Jamboree, held in 1920, the boys dubbed him "Chief Scout of the World."

Now scouting is struggling to consolidate the new look it introduced five years ago. "Today scouts do more than just help little old ladies across the street," a spokesman for the British Scout Association told Editorial Research Reports in London. For example, Flemish Scouts launched a tree-planting drive in Belgium towards the end of 1970. And research done by Danish Rover Scouts led to the publication of a pamphlet on the sources of water pollution. After the Andean earthquake, Peruvian scouts set up a nationwide network for the collection of clothing and food and established distribution posts in damaged areas. They adopted 1,000 orphans, turning their own training center into a hostel for the homeless.

Although scouts in England still involve themselves in local projects such as old people's entertainment, scouts coming from middle-class suburban homes have trouble finding ways of doing their duty. A British spokesman noted that, "In a welfare state it is sometimes very difficult to find someone who really needs a good turn done to them." Working in a geriatric ward, for example, is not every scout's cup of tea. And yet, as Lord Baden-Powell emphasized, scouts must concentrate on their role in the community. Said the old Scout Master before his death: "The real way to get happiness is by giving happiness to other people."

COTTON'S MARKETS DEMAND ADEQUATE SUPPLY

If you can't get what you want in one store, you will go across the street to another store and ask for it. This is the way of life in the market place. It applies to textiles just as to any other product.

Mills have a choice of raw materials to process. For some time, they have been turning to synthetics. This has cut significantly into cotton's share of the market.

Now, the consumption decline has been checked. Youth is demanding color and comfort in apparel and cotton is the ideal answer. Sales of prints, knits, corduroys, denims, and other cottons are holding up well and this is reflected in a stronger demand for cotton. This turnaround is encouraging to cotton farmers who have been putting up a dollar a bale for research and promotion to strengthen their markets.

Failure to capitalize on the demand for cotton by not providing an adequate supply, however, could jeopardize markets and the grower's investment in land, equipment, and other cotton production resources. This has prompted the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the ASCS, and state agricultural extension services to join with the National Cotton Council in a campaign for "Better Cotton Yields for Profits and Markets" in 1971.

They point out that a better yield can bolster the growers net income, increase his payment base under the government farm program, and build greater markets for cotton.

Cotton is an essential commodity. It is highly important not only to the economy of Missouri but to the country as a whole. The effort to increase cotton yields and strengthen markets deserves support.

The average man thinks that if he were as polite at the table as his wife thinks he should be, he would soon starve to death.

NEW YORK (AP) — "World, here I come. Have beaded gown, will travel."

That is the new slogan of Miss Julie Wilson, now appearing at the Rainbow Grill here, who in any popularity contest among her peers would rank as one of the best-liked performers in show business.

As a screen, television and super club star, she has shown her skill at handling audiences. Now she has decided to see if she can handle her career all by herself.

She felt that career had reached some kind of crisis earlier this year when there occurred a lull in it that periodically frightens most stars.

Only the year before she had starred in two Broadway shows. Unfortunately, "Jimmy" lasted only three months and "Park" only three days.

"I was ready to quit show business three months ago," Julie recalled. "Nobody called, nobody offered me a job. I hadn't been on television recently, and unless you're on television everybody thinks you are dead or retired.

"I decided that if agents can't do it for you, you have to do it for yourself. I decided to be my own agent and manager. I figured that nearly 30 years of show business must have taught me something."

After an amicable parting with her agent, the singer set out to do her own booking. She has been phenomenally successful. She has made a couple of television appearances, has signed up for a series of top supper club bookings, and is considering another Broadway show.

Her office? It's a three-bedroom ranch house she recently bought in her home town—Omaha, Neb.—where she feels her two sons, Holt, 7, and Michael, 6, will be able to grow up in a freer and less fearful atmosphere.

"The kids are my life," she said. "Anyway, all you need for an office is a telephone."

A lifelong capacity for friendship is one key to Miss Wilson's successful upsurge. Nobody who meets the breezy, down-toearth, hazel-eyed singer is likely to forget her.

"Money you lose, friends you keep"—that is the way she sums up her philosophy. It could well sum up her career so far, too.

Miss Wilson started at $40 a week in a touring edition of "Earl Carroll's Vanities" and danced and sang her way up to the $5,000 a week bracket.

Her goal, she says, is "to learn how to accept what life offers, the good and the bad, cheerfully. For every bad night, you have many beautiful

Enough of Everything if . . .

America has plenty of land to meet its farming, ranching, forestry and living space needs for the foreseeable future, according to a survey by government soil scientists and conservationists in 3,087 of the nation's 3,135 counties.

If -- we take care of it.

A "Conservation Needs Inventory" reveals that the nation's land, thanks to continually increasing efficiency, is feeding and clothing an increasing population even with reduced acreages.

Since the previous inventory in 1958, population has increased 24 million, yet cropland has declined by 10 million acres and privately owned pasture and range has decreased by three million acres.

In the same period, 11 million acres were added to urban and built-up areas and -- a figure to warm a conservationist's heart -- 9.5 million acres were added to forests.

On the other hand, the scientists warn that three-fifths of the present cropland, 67 per cent of pasture and range and 62 per cent of private forestland is not being treated with proper conservation measures to avoid deterioration.

A Frenchman named Laurent "has invented a new type of incendiary rocket based on the firing of a chamber filled with petroleum oil, which falls like a sheet and continues burning." Scientific American reported awhile back.

In an experiment conducted with the weapon, christened the "Satan rocket," a considerable space of ground was covered with a sea of fire. A general witnessing the test declared himself "appalled at the terrible nature of this engine of destruction" and a committee of artillery officers stated that in its opinion "no civilized nation could make use of these rockets except for reprisal."

The story appeared in the December, 1870, issue of the magazine.

The world can be thankful that the officers were right. In the century since then, no nation has ever made use of the "Satan rocket" -- by that name.

PRELUDE TO DISASTER

Three of the nation's top economists were asked recently whether they favored wage-price controls as a means of combating inflation. Their replies are interesting and strongly at variance with the "man in the street" notion that controls of this nature are the ultimate and most practical answer to the soaring cost of living. All three were opposed to direct wage-price controls, except in a most dire emergency. One, Dr. Milton Friedman, said, "I am strongly opposed to both guidelines and controls. They have been tried many times and have never yet worked. In failing, they have just distorted the economy and spread misinformation about the causes of inflation. Inflation is made in Washington, and nowhere else."

Wage - price controls would be the end of a free market. But, there would still be inflation, minus the alleviating factor of the competitive, mass-production, mass-distribution system which, through sheer efficiency, manages to absorb much of the impact of inflation.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--The Navy has made a secret preliminary finding that its own designers are probably to blame for the death of five sailors and the injury of six in an engine room explosion on the U.S.S. Trenton, an amphibious transport dock.

The disaster in June is just one more horror story for debt-plagued Lockheed, whose subsidiary in Seattle built the Trenton. Lockheed is partially suspect in the blast.

A Navy Court of Inquiry is now sifting the evidence behind closed doors at Norfolk, Va., under Rear Adm. Michael U. Moore.

Navy experts have determined tentatively that a design failure in a valve allowed 600 pounds per square inch of steam to explode onto the sailors. The huge pressure was on the stem instead of on the stronger bonnet where it should have been.

The question of whether Lockheed must share the blame is now under debate in the Navy. Some Navy experts believe Lockheed Shipbuilding is blameless. They say the original Lockheed valve was replaced before the ship put to sea. However, the Navy is having the fatal fitting tested to see whether any metallurgical defect can be chalked up to Lockheed or a subcontractor.

The Trenton is one of seven such ships built by Lockheed. Newly-commissioned, it suffered the steam explosion during exercises off the U.S. base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba. Now, fittings are being checked out on all the other Trenton-type ships.

There is a terrible irony in the death of these sailors in the white inferno of steam. The Navy has fired a pipe inspector, Oscar Hoffman, who showed just the kind of diligence that might have turned up such faults.

Hoffman, who worked on shipyards in Seattle, has sued his Navy bosses--including two who also had supervisory roles over Lockheed's Trenton-type boats. Hoffman charges one boss was entertained by Todd officials at an Elks Club even while Hoffman belabored Todd for its workmanship. Todd, also named in Hoffman's suit, has denied any wrongdoing.

--FORD ROLLOVER--

In June, a top Ford executive warned the public about safety problems in General Motors' Corvair. Henry Ford II, instead of praising his aide, hastily telephoned GM Chairman James Roche to disassociate Ford Motor from the warning.

Now, the Ford official, Harley Copp, may go to the chopping block. There are reports within Ford that the company for which he has worked 25 years is going to lop off 700 of 1,000 men in his division.

Copp's peculiar lesson in the dangers of corporate honesty began in May. At that time, GM said its now-discontinued Corvair doesn't roll over any more than "competitive cars of the same era," including the Ford Falcon.

Copp had engineered the Falcon, was proud of it, and took the GM statement as a blatant insult to his car and his company. He wrote Senate Commerce Chairman Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., telling him of the 1959 Ford tests of Corvairs which showed they rolled over far too easily.

When Henry Ford II heard of Copp's letter to Magnuson, he summoned into his plush offices Ford vice president William Innes, legal advisor Hank Nolte and others. The talk was not about how to keep up the fire on GM, but how to cool it.

With his aides beside him, Ford rapped GM Chairman Roche. Instead of roasting GM for its insult to the Falcon, not approve Copp's letter and that Copp was acting on his own.

--OFFERS TO QUIT--

The distressed Copp, aware by now he was in the doghouse for his belief in free enterprise and competition, offered to quit his job as director of engineering and technical services.

Innes, an old friend, talked him out of it, but gave him no public support. While morale dropped among Ford engineers who worked on the Falcon, Copp sat tight. But rumors spread that Ford himself had ordered another ace technical man, Bob Graham, to begin taking over part of Copp's division.

It was then that Magnuson, fearing Copp's fate was uncertain, wrote an energetic private letter to Henry Ford II in an effort to preserve Copp in his job.

"In speaking out against erroneous statements of the General Motors Corporation," said Magnuson, "Mr. Copp distinguished himself as a person who is committed to the Ford Motor Company and to the public...."

Lawyer Nolte conceded to us that Graham might be getting a new job, but said he had no knowledge it was at Copp's expense. As to the Roche call, Nolte confirmed Ford made it. But it was "informative," not "apologetic." Copp declined comment.

Footnote: A question now haunting consumer advocates is why Ford did not make public in 1959 its tests showing Corvairs had dangerous rollover tendencies. Lives might have been saved, and GM might have corrected the perky little cars before Ralph Nader sank his teeth into them. Hard-competing old Henry Ford, Sr., Henry II's grandfather, would certainly have found a way of making

A SOUTHERN PALACE

Six Flags Over Texas is a huge amusement park located on Interstate 20 about mid-way between Dallas and Fort Worth. Thousands of people from across the nation come to Six Flags every year to wander through the fairyland of imaginary characters and enjoy the thrills of the Runaway Mine Train and the Log Ride. But sun and thrills are not all the Six Flags visitor can find.

Near the center of the large and cleanly-kept grounds of the park is the "Southern Palace" where live entertainment is presented daily. This is not the ordinary live entertainment with long-haired weirdos and strange-sounding noise they prefer to call "music." This is constructive entertainment by young patriotic citizens of Republic USA.

The theme of the show is a red-white-and-blue, flag-waving tribute to our nation and its great history. The show includes a slide show of great American historical events such as the Civil War and the singing of patriotic hymns like "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" and "America, the Beautiful." There is no tribute paid to protestors, potheads, hippies, pillheads and free lovers. They deserve no tribute.

These young people know the value of supporting our nation and doing their individual parts to emphasize Freedom's advantages. They walk proudly UNDER the flag, not ALL OVER IT! They believe in resolution, not revolution, and respect the laws of the land. They work for a living and are proud that they do. They want a better world that is constructive, not a bitter world that is destructive.

The audiences that see this production and the dedication of these youthful leaders are caught up in the "glory of the flag" and very often respond with standing ovations for the cast and sentiment expressed.

When God made the eagle, He said: "The sky is the limit. Go build your own house." The young patriots at the "Southern Palace" are the eagles of our nation's future and are flying high to build their house on top of Freedom's mountain. They deserve a standing ovation! HLH

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

WASHINGTON:-- Not even the most sophisticated computers which arrange for a rendezvous on the moon can calculate the billions of dollars lost by the nation's railroads to pay men who don't work; men who sit and watch others perform a task for which both are paid; men who get anywhere from three to five days' pay for doing one day's work.

Some railroad specialists put the figure at $5 billion a year. Some, at $13.5 billion wasted. But either way, it's lots of money even in this Keynesian town.

Fair is fair. Just note this: an "on-train" employee, say, a conductor, on the Metroliner's round trip from Union Station here to New York and back, gets four days' pay for one day's "work." So he runs a day and has virtually a week's pay. He then can moonlight or watch the flower people on the Mall.

This has been the longest running dice game in the country, as one Federal official put it. These are weird pay rates and rules which have gotten weirder ever since the New Deal took over the National Railroad Adjustment Board and tightly controlled it back around 1937.

Or there is the big switching game: a limit is drawn around a rail yard or terminal. Arbitrarily, the rail unions have set such rules as special pay for picking up freight at plants within four miles of the terminal -- if those plants were built before 1951.

Or there is the yard line between on-train crews and rail yard crews. Both have different seniority lists. It is as though they worked for different lines miles apart. If inside the yard an on-train crew handles the slightest switching or car transferring work, this on-train crew gets two days' pay. One day's income for working in the yard. One day's pay for on-train duty, though they have already been paid for the day.

And the terminal (or yard) crew gets a day's pay though they just stood by and watched. They did not even have to watch. They could have been in the washroom or the coffee shop. So the railroad has to pay three days' pay for what should have been one day's pay for work that may have taken a few minutes.

These rules are called "arbitraries." In effect, the union fights to stretch the work. And strikes if it can't hold back the 20th Century -- and by that I don't mean the wonderful old liner which used to start us on our Hollywood journeys.

For example, in the past 10 years, 23 railroads spent $33 million on radio communication equipment -- engine-to-ground and yard communication, caboose to engineer. But the union has fought the use of walkie-talkies because this speeds up work and someone may get laid off. So, the union demands penalty pay for using radio communications instead of smoke signals.

Costs? The bankrupt "Pennsy" reports that excess manpower costs it $135 million yearly -- for unneeded work, not done by featherbedders. And there are as well as the vital, small-link lines without which this nation's rail grid could not function.

Well, the 21st Century has a way of showing up. And it runs head on into Stone Age tactics. So it's time someone laid it on the line. What is this strike-happy outfit, this 280,000-member United Transportation Union (AFL-CIO) which worships the steam engine?

First, look at its power to strike. It can call out its men now, under the Supreme Court ruling that selective strikes are legal. Striking doesn't hurt the men much. Under the Railroad Retirement Board benefits (paid by the rail carriers) a striker gets about half his regular income when out of work. This is tax free. So add that. If he can show need, he receives help from local agencies in some form of welfare or relief, reportedly even food stamps. So he doesn't hurt.

But there are thousands of other workers who do. They are the men and women who lose a day or week's work in coal mines, steel mills, auto plants, on farms, in warehouses and other industries dependent on the rails. And what of the trains which lie exposed for lack of freight cars?

This UTU is led by a cigar-chomping chap I know well, one Charles Luna who is the drollest fellow when he gives you the "country boy" routine. He knows that in the final analysis he can hit link railroads such as the Alton and Southern Railway, which has 155 miles of track and only 641 employees but is a crucial link in the grid. It is a big switching operation. And if you can't switch, you can't operate, and if enough little links are paralyzed the whole system breaks down.

Charles Luna will retire during the union's 19-day convention in Miami Beach's luxury Fontainebleau Hotel. And there are more than three coins in this Fontainebleau saga. Luna's job pays $37,600 yearly. And this presidency is coveted. Now it happens that there are five men in the running for the job -- and four of them make up the UTU's national negotiation committee. And, according to government officials, they're not about to come to the convention as weaklings who surrendered any arbitraries won by strike threats over the past 35 years.

These men were top leaders in four unions, the Conductors and Brakemen, the Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, and the Switchmen's Union, which merged in January 1969 into the UTU.

These arbitraries practically double the rail worker's regular hourly income -- and cut his work in half. And the UTU negotiation committee men aren't about to slash their intra-union careers in half. And the nation's railroads aren't about to see bankruptcy cut the lines in half.

It's up to the Congress -- which is yawning through the crisis, preparing to go home for August.

The UTU has political muscle. Few politicians want to tangle with that. What matters the 21st Century -- or the great train robbery?

Administration on Way to Worst Two-Year Deficit Since '45-6

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is on the way to piling up the worst back-to-back deficits in federal government operations since 1945-46.

But administration officials shrug off the two deficits, expected to total more than $40 billion in fiscal 1971 and 1972, saying they are fiscally responsible.

The reason, they say, is that the budget spending is pegged to the amount of tax revenues the government would expect to receive in times of high prosperity.

In fiscal 1945, the federal deficit, ballooned by wartime spending, was $45 billion. As peace returned, the deficit dropped to $18 billion the following year.

The Treasury Department reported Wednesday the deficit for fiscal 1971, which ended June 30, climbed to $23.2 billion, second highest one-year deficit of the post-World War II era.

Officially, the White House says, the deficit for fiscal 1972 will be $11.6 billion. But already administration officials have acknowledged publicly it will be closer to $18.6 billion.

The largest back-to-back deficits in the past 25 years were those in fiscal 1967 and 1968 when President Lyndon B. Johnson was in office.

But the Nixon deficits are more responsible than those, say administration officials, including Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, a Democrat and close political associate of Johnson.

The fiscal 1971 budget actually showed a $2.5-billion surplus on a full-employment basis, Conally and George P. Shultz, director of the Office of Management and Budget, said. It was the third year in a row a full-employment balance or surplus has been achieved.

"This record is in sharp contrast to that of fiscal years 1966 through 1968, when full-employment deficits totaled more than $40 billion," they said.

Full employment is defined as a 4-per-cent jobless rate. The unemployment rate during the fiscal year averaged 5.7 per cent and got bigger as the year went along.

As the federal budget floundered deeper in the red, so did the nation's trade position.

In June, the Commerce Department said, the nation recorded its third straight monthly deficit in trade, with imports exceeding exports by $363 million, raising the figure for the first six months of the year to $373 billion. This was the first time this had happened in the 25 years the government has been keeping trade figures on a seasonally adjusted basis.

Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans says the balance could drop to zero this year for the first time since 1893.

Brief Engine Burst Zeroes Astronauts in on Moon

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Apollo 15 astronauts, their commander a newly qualified space plumber, zeroed in on the moon with a brief engine burst today and were ready to fire into lunar orbit using a new technique that will require split-second manual control.

The one-second course change maneuver at 11:04 a.m. EDT nudged the spaceship onto a moreprecise path that will take it within 65 miles of the moon's surface later in the day.

Scott, who used a wrench Wednesday night to fix a water leak in the cabin, reported "I guess you can see it was a nice smooth burn."

Apollo 15 was 14,294 miles from the moon, travening 2,691 miles an hour.

As the astronauts make their close approach to the moon, they will execute a new engine ignition procedure to shoot into orbit.

The new firing procedure is necessary to by-pass a short circuit that developed in the engine system shortly after Scott, James B. Irwin and Alfred M. Worden were launched from Cape Kennedy Monday on their moon-landing expedition.

Astronaut Richard L. Gordon, commander of the Apollo 15 backup crew, worked out the technique in a computer-driven simulator here and passed up instructions to Apollo 15 Wednesday night.

First trial of the procedure is set for 4:05 p.m. EDT today when Apollo 15 sweeps behind the backside of the moon and fires into orbit about 70 miles above the surface.

The short is in one of two electrical circuits which the astronauts can use to trigger the 20,500-pound thrust engine on their command ship Endeavour.

It indicates the firing mechanism on one bank has been armed and that the use of a computer to fire the engine might ignite it prematurely. Mission Control does not believe the engine actually is harmed, but it doesn't want to take chances.

The second circuit is in good condition, but at least six more firings of the engine are planned and to use the second bank for all six might deteriorate it.

Under the procedures worked out by Gordon, Apollo 15 will use computer control and the good circuit for the most critical burns. A hybrid maneuver employing both circuits under manual control will be used for the firings requiring less, but still extremely accurate, precision, such as the one firing them into moon orbit.

While the astronauts were in a sleep period at 1:25 a.m. today Apollo 15 quietly slipped through a so-called "twilight zone" in which the gravitational influence of the earth and moon is equal. They were 219,308 miles from home and 39,028 miles from the moon.

When the spaceship passed this invisible line, the moon won the gravitational tug of war and Apollo 15's speed accelerated after slowing to about 2001 miles an hour. The speed will increase to about 5,700 m.p.h. when the astronauts loop around the moon's backside.

Before the water leak incident, Scott and Irwin crawled through a connecting tunnel into the lunar lander Falcon for a second inspection of its systems. They pronounced it in excellent condition to carry them to a landing at the base of the moon's tallest mountains, the Apennines, at 6:15 p.m. Friday.

For 67 hours, they are to explore the surface, driving a wheeled moon buggy to inspect the mountains, a deep gorge called Hadley Rille, the craters, some of which may be volcanic.

While in the Falcon, they cleaned up additional slivers of glass from a small shattered pane which they discovered during the first visit Tuesday.

The pane was part of a double-glass cover on a radar meter. Mission Control said tests showed the loss of helium pressure that resulted when the outer glass broke would not affect the meter's performance.

Earlier Wednesday, the three astronauts pulled their window shades and donned blindfolds in a scientific quest for information about mysterious cosmic lights that flashed through their eyes and brain cells.

During the hour-long test, they reported about a sighting a minute but said there was no physical sensation. Scott said about 90 per cent of his sightings took the form of single pinpoints.

"As for my impressions," said the Apollo commander, "you might picture yourself high in the stands at the Ice Capades with the arena darkened and some single figure on the ice like Peggy Fleming doing a nice thing. And you look across at the other side of the dark arena and somebody shoots a flashbulb."

The test was devised because all previous Apollo crews reported the flashes far from earth and in the vicinity of the moon, mostly when the cabin was dark and their eyes were closed.

New Rail Negotiations Slated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House scheduled new negotiations today between the United Transportation Union and carriers in an attempt to settle a dispute that has idled four railroads.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the talks are the Nixon administration's continuing "attempts to aid the parties in reaching a voluntary agreement.

Assistant Secretary of Labor W. J. Usery, acting on another administration directive, met in Cleveland with UTU President Charles Luna Wednesday night. A union spokesman said no progress was made in the meeting.

Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson told Congress the administration wants a voluntary settlement. "Compulsory solutions are a last resort," he told a House Commerce subcommittee Wednesday.

His statements were backed up at the White House, where Ziegler said no request for emergency legislation would be made unless economic effects of the strike become too great.

The union has added three more lines to the list it plans to shut down in its progressive walkouts.

Already struck in a dispute centered on work rules are the Southern Railway, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and the Norfolk & Western. Added for Aug. 11 are the Erie-Lackawanna, Louisville & Nashville and St. Louis and San Francisco.

Six rail firms are scheduled for strike this Friday: the Atchinson, Topeka & Santa Fe; Houston Belt & Terminal; Alton & Southern; Duluth, Messabi and Iron Range; Elgin, Joliet and Eastern, and the Bessemer and Lake Erie.

Scheduled for Aug. 6 strikes are the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific; Chicago Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific; Missouri-Kansas-Texas; Baltimore & Ohio, and Chesapeake & Ohio.

Editors: FYI, talks scheduled for 2 p.m. EDT.

Hodgson Tells Congress

New Strike Legislation Must Be Written to Stop Spread

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress must soon write new legislation dealing with national transit labor problems "or get ready to go into the disputesettling business on a massive scale," says Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson.

"I urge you to resist the temptation to believe compulsory arbitration and free collective bargaining can somehow lie down together like the lion and the lamb," he told the House transportation subcommittee Wednesday. At the core, each is at war with the other. There must be a choice."

Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe was called to testify today.

The subcommittee, at hearings on a batch of bills to set up new permanent legislation heading off frequent emergency congressional intervention in plane and train disputes, faces a difficult job, said Commerce Committee Chairman Harley O. Staggers.

"I hope they have all the wisdom in the world to come up with it," the West Virginia Democrat told Hodgson. "We've been asked for some permanent legislation ... it's going to be a little bit hard to come up with some kind of answer."

Staggers approved of Hodgson's decision declining to discuss the current selective-strike situation. The chairman said strikers and management should have an opportunity to work out their own affairs under Hodgson's encouragement of a voluntary settlement instead of a compulsory solution by Congress now.

Hodgson, urging approval of the Nixon administration's proposed emergency public interest protection act, said: "The public will no longer tolerate national emergencies caused by transportation labor disputes.

"Bargainers no longer fear congressional action as they once did, so more and more disputes will end up in the lap of Congress. This leaves Congress with the choice of either equipping itself to get heavily into the labor dispute-settling business or enacting legislation to forestall assumption of this unwanted burden."

The administration bill would build on the Taft-Hartley Act, giving the president three new options covering all transit industries, and would reform Railway Labor Act procedures "to create a new climate that will promote real and effective collective bargaining," Hodgson said.

The president could either extend the cooling-off period, operate part of a troubled industry, or have a neutral board impose as a binding settlement the last contract offer of either union or management.

Three Sikeston Women Honored by Nomination

Diane Taylor, Eileen Scheu and Mrs. Benny Walker, Jr. have been selected Outstanding Young Women for 1971 according to an announcement today by Tau chapter Beta Sigma Phi. They were nominated by the organization earlier this year on the basis of their achievements.

The Outstanding Young Women of America program, now in its seventh year, was conceived by the leaders of the nation's major women's organizations. The program recognizes young women between 21 and 35 for their contributions to the betterment of their communities, professions, and country. Serving on the program's Board of Advisors are the national presidents of women's clubs, headed by Mrs. Dexter Otis Arnold, honorary president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Each year over 6,000 young women are nominated as Outstanding Young Women of America by leading women's organizations, college alumni associations, and churches across the country. Complete biographical sketches of all nominees are featured in the national volume, Outstanding Young Women of America.

These women are now in competition for their states' Outstanding Young Woman of the Year Award. This fall, fifty of the young women included in Outstanding Young Women of America -- one from each state -- will be named as their states' Oustanding Young Woman of the Year.

Publication date for the 1971 awards volume is November.

Mrs. Stephen Mark Fugate

Fugate-Woodard

EAST PRAIRIE -- Miss Deborah Dean Woodard and Stephen Mark Fugate were married in a setting of multi - hued daisies illuminated by candlelight July 10 in the Nelson Memorial United Methodist church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Woodard, Jr. and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Herman Fugate.

A basket arrangement of Killian daisies in white and pastel shades of pink and turquoise, flanked by matching 15-branch arch candelabra formed the background before which the Rev. Glen Lashley, pastor of the church, performed the double ring ceremony.

Musical selections, "The Shadow of Your Smile", "Somewhere" and "The Impossible Dream" were played by Lee Felts on trumpet and Mrs. Weldon Bird at the organ, prior to the ceremony. Milas Mainord, soloist, sang "Bridge Over Troubled Waters", "The Theme from Love Story" and as the couple knelt, "The Lord's Prayer".

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white re-embroidered English illusion, poised over bridal silk. A bias band of pale pink bridal silk defined the empire bodice which featured a scoop neckline and long Juliet sleeves fitted at the wrist with handmade silk buttons. The button detail was repeated down the back of the bodice.

Her graceful skirt was fashioned into a bias circular design with deep folds creating simultated panels, while the back fullness flowed into a train of chapel length.

Created for her gown, her headdress was a ripple brim Southern Belle hat of white English illusion to which her chapel length veil of imported illusion was attached. A pale pink velvet choker encrusted with seed pearls was her only item of jewelry.

She carried a cascade basket of pink roses sourrounding pink and white daisies with ivy and ribbon streamers.

Mrs. Richard Dodson of Bertrand was matron of honor and her bridesmaids were Miss LaDonna Johnson of East prairie, Miss Debra Jo Hoover of Cupertino, Calif., and Miss Marla Adkison of Los Angeles.

Michael Fugate of Memphis served his brother as bestman. Groomsmen were Dwight Fugate, brother of the groom of Memphis, Samuel Woodard, brother of the bride of East Prairie and Mike Pulhamus, cousin of the groom, from Omaha, Neb. Ushers were Mike Tatum of East Prairie and Mike Esposite of Chicago.

Serving at the reception following the ceremony in the dining hall of the church were Mrs. David Harrison of St. Louis and Mrs. Michael Fugate of Memphis. Julie Harrison and Chery Fugate presented guests of the reception with pink net rice bags.

Presiding at the guest register in the foyer of the church was Mrs. Danny Scruggs of East Prairie.

Following a wedding trip to Biloxi, Miss., and New Orleans, the young couple are at home in Oak Park, Ill.

The new Mrs. Fugate is a 1967 graduate of East Prairie high school and graduated from the University of Missouri at Columbia this spring. Psychiatry Not a Cure All, But it Can Help

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I admired your raw courage when you blasted the chiropractors. And now, my dear, when are you going to unmask the psychiatrists? You know good and well that most of them are charlatans, interested only in a lucrative practice. Have you ever heard of a mentally sick person who was set right permanently by psychiatry? I have not.

No amount of therapy can cure a problem caused by heredity. Hours of talking cannot alter defective genes. Surely you know that depressions are cyclical and most people who believe psychiatry helped them would have gotten better without it. No one will ever sell me the idea that mental illness yields to persuasion. Why don't you give up?---With You On Most Things.

Dear With: I wouldn't try to sell you anything. Your mind is not only closed--it is nailed shut.

Charlatans can be found in every field and psychiatry is no exception. In addition to the quacks, there are also incompetent psychiatrists, and downright nutty ones who went into the specialty in search of solutions to their own problems.

While emotional illness may seem to run in families, it is not inherited in the same way that a syphilitic mother passes on the disease to her offspring. Our central nervous system are inherited, however, and this is a factor which cannot be discounted.

I have stated repeatedly that a sick person who seeks psychiatric help has only a 50-50 chance of getting well. Of those who do get well, some credit their doctors with rescuing them from a prison of hate and bitterness, unable to work, unable to love and unable to accept themselves.

True, talking cannot alter defective genes, but it can dissipate hostility and anger which is like poison to the body and mind. Talking can also bring tremendous relief to people whose real feelings have been hidden even from themselves. Moreover, talking can uncover an enormous amount of unearned guilt, which is a major cause for nervous breakdowns.

You say you've never heard of a mentally ill person who was set right by psychiatry? Well, I have. Furthermore, I receive letters of appreciation almost every day from people who say therapy saved their lives and they thank me for urging them to get professional help.

Dear Ann Landers: I've been looking at this piece of paper for half an hour trying to put this delicately. But there's no way--so here it goes.

Last weekend we had guests. (Close relatives). One of the guests came out of the bathroom with a very sheepish expression on his face. Finally he said, "I broke the toilet seat." Everyone roared.

He was embarrassed, and I felt sorry for him. Later that evening he asked me to buy a new seat and send him the bill. I informed him that it wasn't necessary--that the seat had been cracked for some time and it could have happened to anyone. His response was, 'You are just trying to make me feel better. I don't believe it."

Yesterday we received a blank check with a note saying, "Please buy a new seat to replace the one I broke. I won't be comfortable until you do." I would feel like a fraud accepting his money. That doggone thing was ready to go any minute. My husband says we should accept the check, buy a new seat and forget it.

What do you say?---A House Divided

Dear House: Accept the check. Buy a new seat and forget it.

NEW YORK — Hit over the head three times this season by the New York Mets, Steve Carlton charged his game plan Wednesday with singular success. And when Joe Torre and rookie Jose Cruz supported the tall lefthander with booming home runs, the Cardinals turned on their tormentors.

"I threw a lot of curve balls," said Carlton after holding off the Mets for a 6-3 victory at Shea Stadium. "They'd been hitting my fastball in other games, so I tried something different for a change."

Can you blame him?

Conquered three times previously by the Mets, Carlton could see his chances for his first 20-victory output grow dimmer. But he was a strong all-the-way workman, shrugged off disheartening breaks and recorded his fourteenth victory.

A six-time loser, Carlton struck out seven and now needs only victories over San Francisco and Cincinnati to complete the pitching "cycle."

The Red Birds, matching New York's eight-hit total, pounced early on young lefty Jon Matlack. They had routed him 10 days earlier in St. Louis, so his two major -league losses have been inflicted by the Cardinals, who inched away from the fourth-place Mets.

Jerry McNertney, the Cardinals' super-sub catcher spelling Ted Simmons, began a three-run second inning with a single. After Cruz struck out, Dal Maxvill pushed a hit to right and Carlton drew a bases loading walk from Matlack.

Lou Brock's force-paly bouncer broght in McNertney and, with Brock breaking on a pitch, Julian Javier smacked a single to center. Maxville scored and so did Brock when centerfielder Don Hahn bobbled the ball.

Duffy Dyer, the villain of Tuesday's 3-2 St. Louis loss with a game-winning blooper, nearly did it again before 30,796 witnesses.

With one away, Tommie Agee doubled to center when Cruz missed a diving try. After Cleon Jones bounced out, Donn Clendenon was hit by a pitch and Bob Aspromonte walked, loading the bases.

Then Dyer swung on a curve and bounced toward shortstop Maxvill. Ooops! The ball skipped over Maxie's head and the Mets had two runs, reducing their gap to just 3-2.

"What can you do?" Carlton said. "Maxie jumped as high as he could. I tried to pitch deliberately to them."

Then Torre delivered the game's decisive wallop, a two-run homer in the fifth off righthander Charlie Williams, to give Carlton an 8-11 career record against the Mets.

If Carlton had developed a complex against them, can you blame him? After all, he struck out 19 Mets two years ago — and still lost. Not this time, though.

Luis Melendez walked and Torre came up. "He threw me a high fastball on the first pitch," Torre said, "then a high curve. When I saw it, I hoped I wouldn't get too anious."

Torre, losing two points of his National League-leading average to .368, settled for just 1-for-4 Wednesday. The Cardinals lead 2-1 in the series.

Two of the five bases on balls Carlton issued caused him some uneasiness in the seventh, when pinch-batter Jerry Grote rolled into a double play and Tim Foli scored.

Then Cruz, hitting .237, supplied additional elbow room in the eighth when he crashed Jim McAndrew's first pitch far into the right-field bullpen. It was the wiry kid's second of the season, and the Cardinals' third success in 11 tries against New York was packed away.

Pitching coach Barney Schultz glowed over Carlton's performance.

"he had to be strong," said Heer Schultz. "Steve threw 152 pitches and 62 were curves. Most clubs are fastball-hitting teams, anyway. Besides, he'd made up his mind to go with his curve against the Mets."

Across the clubhouse, Torre was extolling the virtues of his water diet. "I get hundreds of letters a week for my diet," he said. "My stomach really has shrunk."

As long as his average doesn't shrink, he's happy. He now trails Willie Stargell in RBIs, 91-86, and has a 10-game batting streak. "The trick is to avoid long dry spells, andI've been lucky that way.

BOXING

By The Associated Press

PITCHING -- Jim Slaton, Brewers, hurled Milwaukee's 17th shutout of the season, stopping the Boston Red Sox on three hits 5-0.

HITTING -- Frank Robinson, Orioles, slammed a three-run homer in the bottom of the ninth inning, lifting Baltimore to a 3-2 victory over the Oakland A's.

A good name is to be chosen rather than great riches, and favor is better than silver or gold.—Proverbs 22:1.

Blue Seeks 20th Win Tonight

BALTIMORE (AP) — Vida Blue, Oakland's sensational southpaw, goes after his 20th victory of the season tonight as the Athletics try to salvage the final game of a four-game series against Baltimore.

Blue, who celebrated his 22nd birthday on Wednesday, has beaten the Orioles twice this season by 1-0 and 2-1 scores.

The hurler, the loser of three decisions, edged Pat Dobson 1-0 early in the season in Oakland and topped Jim Palmer, tonight's opponent, 2-1 in Baltimore.

Oakland Manager Dick Williams said although Blue probably will pitch about 300 innings this season, he did not believe the youngster had been overworked.

"Only once has he thrown more than 150 pitches in one game," Williams said. "His average is about 120.

"Most young pitchers hurt their arms throwing sliders. Vida doesn't throw one, and I don't want him to, either. He has a smooth motion, not herky-jerky."

Colts Favored In Star Clash

CHICAGO (AP) — There is a popular theory that football games are won between the lines but the recent College All Star battles indicate they are usually lost in the secondary.

The All Stars haven't knocked off the professional champions in this midsummer classic since 1963 and each year it seems that a Joe Namath, Bart Starr or Len Dawson has amazing success in passing against the collegiates.

This year, the All Stars have a host of speedy talent ready to stop Baltimore and Earl Morall, the 38-year-old quarterback who came off the bench in the Super Bowl and led the Colts to a 16-13 triumph over Dallas.

Blanton Collier, retired coach of the Cleveland Browns, making his debut as All Star mentor, has four cornerbacks to patrol the airways and he says "they all have speed."

This speed—belonging to Len Dunlap of North Texas State, Clarence Scott of Kansas State, Isaac Thomas of Bishop College and Norm Thompson of Utah— will be on display—and on the spot—Friday night at Soldier Field in the 38th renewal of the series. The pros hold a 29-9-2 series edge. The game will be televised nationally by ABC at 9:30 p.m. EDT.

It will be up to Dunlap, Scott, Thomas and Thompson to stop Baltimore's receiving corps of Ray Perkins, Roy Jefferson and Eddie Hinton.

Dunlap and Thompson share an NCAA record for returning interceptions for touchdowns while Scott's coach at Kansas State, Vince Gibson, called his man the finest defensive player in the nation.

A man who may take exception of that remark will be safety for the All Stars. He is Jack Tatum, twice an All American and the anchor of Ohio State's defense in 1968-6970, three seasons in which the Bucks lost only twice.

Tatum will be responsible for shutting off Baltimore's tight ends, John Mackey and Tom Mitchell.

Young Pitches Stars Past Portageville

Jeff Young fired a one-hit shutout in last night's first round play of the 16th annual 9 and 10 year old Sikeston Little League baseball tournament to send the Sikeston All Stars into a 10-0 triumph over Portageville.

Sikeston sent seven runners across home plate in the first inning.

Bloomfield, the squad that eliminated the Sikeston Aces in opening play Monday night, continued its drive for the tourney title with an extra inning, 12-11 victory over Charleston in last night's second game.

Harts Bread and Collins Construction, members of the Sikeston Little League, collide tonight at 6:30 p.m. to decide the consolation championship of the Musial league. Both teams have one victory in the three-game series. Bell City and Illmo-Scott City were scheduled to play in the early time period, but Bell city withdrew from the tourney and the playoff was scheduled in its place.

Chaffee and Bertrand meet in the second game at 8 p.m. in a quarterfinal bout.

Three hits, including a double from Sikeston's Deal, three walks, and a Portageville error highlighted the seven run scoring first inning for Sikeston. After the Stars seven runs, Young took over for the squad and held the Portageville offense to four base runners.

Portageville's only hit came in the first inning where Steve Fisher connected for a double.

Sikeston's Mark Lee and David Wilkerson connected for two of the Stars' five hits and scored five of the squads' 10 runs. Young connected for a single. Russell Deal and Steve Burgess recorded the final two hits.

Jeff Killion took the loss.

In the second game, Bloomfield battled Charleston for eight innings before winning pitcher Jackson reached first on a single and scored the winning run for Bloomfield.

Charleston banged out 11 hits in its one run loss, including the first inning grand slam from catcher Purnell. Purnell's four-base blast lifted Charleston into an early 6-4 lead. Bloomfield's five runs in the second frame gave the winners a 9-6 advantage. Six of the 13 Bloomfield hits came in the first two innings which included doubles from Croden, Jackson, Roberts, and Sharp.

Jackson paced the victors hitting with three hits and tally. Croden belted two scored three of the squads 12 doubles. Ross and Rickman runs, including the winning each scored three rungs.

Carman Springs Hunt Cancelled

JEFFERSON CITY— James Brewer, Supervisor of the Mark Twain National Forest, has asked the Missouri Department of Conservation to withdraw plans for a primitive weapons deer hunt on Carman Spring Refuge in Howell County. The Department agrees that the regulation authorizing the hunt was a result of a misunderstanding between the Department and the National Forest.

"We are in favor of primitive weapons hunting," Brewer said, "but believe that further consideration of this area is needed. Carman Spring Refuge has great value as a remote area to be enjoyed by nonconsumptive users, such as nature photographers, bird watchers, and hikers.

"The Forest Service has been collecting habitat data from which the Department and the Forest intend to develop a management plan for the area and does not feel that the area should be open to hunting until the plan has been formulated.

"All interests should have an opportunity to participate in completing the plan. Perhaps primitive weapons hunting will be one of the suitable activities."

Apollo 15 Crewmen Are Study in Contrast

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Apollo 15 crewmen are a study in contrast: There's an all-American military man; a quiet, reserved plumber's son; a mod-dressing, fast-talking bachelor.

David Randolph Scott, 39-year-old commander of Apollo 15, is an Air Force general's son who has been aimed at a military career since boyhood.

The 6-foot tall, blue-eyed spaceman was born on a military base, got his middle name from an Air Force base and spent his boyhood in military schools.

Scott graduated from the U.S. Military Academy at West Point fifth in a class of 633 in 1954. He took his commission in the Air Force and became a jet pilot.

The Air Force selected him for advanced schooling and Scott earned two master's degrees from Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

He graduated at the top of his class at the Air Force test pilot school and was snapped up by the space agency for astronaut training.

Scott demonstrated his cool on Gemini 8 in 1966 when the spacecraft went out of control. He and astronaut Neil A. Armstrong regained control and brought it to a safe emergency landing.

In 1969, Scott was command module pilot of Apollo 9 and was the first astronaut to fly alone in the Apollo command ship.

Scott is married to the former Ann Lurton Ott of San Antonio. They have two children, Tracy, 10, and Douglas, 7.

The astronaut is known as one of the strongest men in the spacemen's corps. A physical fitness buff, he runs two miles a day.

James B. Irwin Jr., 41-yearold lunar module pilot, survived a near fatal airplane crash in 1961 to win later selection as an astronaut.

Apollo 15 is the first space flight for the Air Force lieutenant colonel.

The son of a plumber, Irwin grew up in Salt Lake City and sought a military career. He attended the U.S. Naval Academy and took his commission in the Air Force.

He became an Air Force jet pilot and later graduated from the test pilot school.

In the 1961 accident, Irwin broke both legs, his jaw and suffered a severe concussion.

The accident, he says, "kind of wiped me out. I never expected I'd ever be able to qualify for the astronaut program."

But he recovered and was selected in 1966.

Irwin is married to the former Mary Ellen Monroe of Corvallis, Ore. They have four children, Joy, 11, Jill, 10, James, 8, and Jan, 6.

The astronaut, who stands 5-foot-8 is a quiet, reserved man who favors dark suits and colorful shirts and wears his black hair long and combed straight back.

Alfred M. Worden, 39, is the command module pilot.

The Air Force major is a talkative, mod-dressing bachelor who dates television stars, stewardesses and secretaries.

He is a graduate of the U.S. Military Academy and a veteran jet pilot Apollo 15 will be his first space flight.

Worden grew up on a farm near Jackson, Mich., and is the son of a movie projectionist who still works at the Plaza Theater in Jackson.

Worden is a racing fan and from time to time has taken the wheel of racing cars. He drives a white sports car.

He has had a lifelong interest in music and is an accomplished pianist. He recently bought a grand piano which takes up most of the living room in his bachelor apartment here.

Worden was selected as an astronaut in 1966.

He was formerly married and is the father of two daughters, Merrill, 13, and Alison, 11. The girls live with their mother, who has remarried.

Dear Mr. Blanton:

One of the local officials is quoted as having said "I am going to get Dr. Terhune's license revoked in the nastiest manner possible, no matter what it takes to do it". My attorney volunteers the information that "someone in the medical profession is trying to frame you". Some of my patients state that they are willing to testify under oath that they were hired to obtain signatures on letters harmful to me. Now, I am left with the impression that the Standard is about to publish what sounds like a conglomerate fact and fancy, of rumor and slander and backbiting; a compendium of past mistakes as seen from the worst possible viewpoint. Truly, my cup runneth over!

I have made mistakes, but I have tried to make amends; I have tried to be honest, ethical, and morally beyond reproach -- and have been accused of every crime in the book, and probably some that aren't. Try making a list of the things I'm accused of doing, then ask yourself if one lifetime would be long enough to accomplish all these evil deeds....or if you are interested in rumors as such, drop by and we can compare notes--without doubt there are a few accusations of murder that you aren't familiar with, a few banks supposedly robbed that you haven't heard of, a few felony charges of which you are unaware.

One of the biggest mistakes was in giving house room to my daughter, who is a psychopath, and to some of the children of my first marriage, who were raised by their mother--much safer to lie down in a den of rattlesnakes than to associate with this group.

If you are interested in the truth, I will give you the facts as I see them on anything within reason; if not, please publish a notice of my withdrawal from the field of medicine and anything associated with it, along with your compendium. It just isn't worth the effort.

Sincerely,
Neil C. Terhune, M.D.

My Dear Mr. Blanton:

As Almight GOD' I greet you.

Almost two- thousand years of confinement has elapsed for Me. The dank, dark, musty corridors of Time were not to My liking. Now, My fetters are broken and cast to the ground!

I Am again here, on earth, in My beloved Son's flesh to dictate letters to editors and publishers over the world. I Am thrilled to be Alive - Realistically - to accomplish this chore.

I want to express My gratitude to the newspaper personnel who have written to Us. We try to answer every letter. Perfect Love will cast out fear and the shackles of bondage are broken. Love will triumph in the end. The escalation of Love will quell a broken heart and the recipient can conquer forlornness.

The wings of Love are free and the enlightenment of chance is pursued by happiness. MY Love is complete in ecstasy upon a humble servant of lust. My Love is clean and not dejected.

May the chaos of a world aflame be engulfed in My endless Love, so that a brighter tomorrow will ensue and the light of Love will be lit in every blessed heart throughout the world.

As your One and only Living GOD, I have dictated this Holy Letter to you through My blessed Son who wrote down My Very Sacred Words. May Our Love endure throughout Eternity as I close with these Precious Words. Never, at anytime, will My Holy Name be written on paper. My humble Son will sign this Blessed Letter to keep the flame of Love alive in your heart.

Prayerfully yours,

The suit was filed following the April 6 city election.

Boeing Designs New 747

SEATTLE (AP) — Boeing Co. says it has plans for a new 747 jetliner with a capacity of 1,000 passengers, more than twice as many as the largest 747 jumbo jet now flying is designed to carry.

The distinctive hump at the front of current 747s, which now provides room for an upper-deck lounge, would be extended to the tail of the aircraft to create upper and lower passenger decks about 230 feet long.

Design studies for the enlarged 747 were unveiled Tuesday by Rowland E. Brown, chief of product development for the firm's 747 Division.

Planners envision production of the first 1,000-passenger 747 by 1980, Brown aaid, but a version with a capacity of 750 passengers could emerge sooner from the firm's plant at Everett, Wash.

The $20-million Boeing 747 is designed for a maximum of 490 passengers.

MOPAC Income On Increase

DISASTER AVERTED

CARLE PLACE, N.Y. (AP) A possible train wreck involving some 1,000 commuters may have been averted by a sharp-eyed motorman on the 4:23 pm electric Long Island Railroad train from New York to Huntington.

"There is a steel bar across the tracks and it's touching the third rail," he told a conductor as he brought the 10-car train to a halt.

"There will be a slight delay," said the conductor over the intercom. "We will have to shut off the power to remove a steel bar from the tracks."

The train arrived 15 minutes late but passengers were relieved to know the motorman was on the alert.

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, July 29, the 210th day of 1971. There are 155 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1940, the allout Luftwaffe blitz against Britain began.

On this date—

In 1883, Italy's fascist dictator Benito Mussolini was born in Dovia, Italy.

In 1914, transcontinental telephone service began with a conversation between New York and San Francisco.

In 1920 air mail service between New York and San Francisco began.

In 1945 Britain's new prime minister, Clement Attlee, replaced Winston Churchill at the Potsdam conference.

In 1946 a peace conference opened in Paris after World War II, with 21 nations in attendance.

In 1967, scores of American servicemen were killed in an explosion and fire aboard the U.S. aircraft carrier "Forrestal" off North Vietnam.

Ten years ago: President Kennedy's disarmament adviser, John McCloy, flew back from Moscow to Washington, interrupting a meeting with Soviet deputy foreign minister Zorin. He reportedly told Kennedy the Kremlin was angered by the U.S. stand on Germany and the Berlin question.

Five years ago: It was announced that an American reconnaissance plane missing over South America had been found wrecked in the mountains of Bolivia.

The glasphalt product was conceived by University of Missouri at Rolla engineering students and is being tested under grants from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and the Glass Container Manufacturer's Institute.

Other products made from recycled glass are new glass containers, building bricks, glass insulated wool, aerated concrete, and acoustic tiles.

When asked if he would support the proposed glass redemption center, James Grant, Charleston IGA manager, said:

"I don't care about ecology myself. I'm in favor of anything as long as we are able to produce a profit."

"I had luck because of the numerous businessmen in town who had been connected with Chamber activities. They helped me out."

He said the hardest thing was to get established in the field which a Chamber of Commerce operates.

Johnson commented on his greatest satisfaction:

"This is gonna make a lot of people mad. Probably, as far as the community goes, it was helping establish SEMO Aviation in Malden. It was a lot of hard work but I enjoyed it."

When asked about his great disappointment he replied:

"I don't want to get me shot" and added:

"The few people in the city that I have met, and they admit it, that don't know of the activities of the Chamber, especially since everything the Malden Chamber of Commerce does is given wide coverage in the news media."

The thief entered the building by breaking a rear window and reaching inside to open a door. The thief stacked 22 new tires into a truck van at the rear of the building. Police said apparently they could not start the truck's engine and abandoned the tires.

The five being held in jail are under investigation for both burglaries.

Why?

"There are several reasons," he said, turning a cigarette between his fingers, "and I'm not sure I can explain them all.

"For one thing, I was tired of the routine, and for another, the step (working for the bank) offered more financially."

During his five-year banking career, he completed a three-year course at the Louisiana State University School of Banking of the South, attending during the summer and supplementing with correspondence courses.

In October, 1970, he rejoined the school system as director of secondary education, with the understanding that he would become superintendent July 1, 1971.

Why would a man leave a relatively secure position in an established firm to become a school superintendent?

"Again," he said, "for several reasons. I missed the association with young people and people associated with education and administrative education offers an opportunity to make contributions in an intangible way.

"I know this has been said many times, but as I look around this community, I see young people who attended while I was at the junior high school. Some of them, at that time, I saw no promise for, but today they're valuable members of the community -- good fathers, good providers. So you can, after a time, see the fruits of your labor."

One of Harbin's assets when the time came for selecting a new superintendent was his record at the junior high school.

"They knew me," he said, "and knew what I wanted for the system."

"The eight months you served as director of secondary education," I questioned, "sounds like an apprenticeship. What took place during that time?"

"The changes in education fields during five years," he explained, "were vast. The staff had increased to about 350 certificated teachers. And the public had changed, too. We're dealing with an accountability-conscious public now. Ten years ago, or more, when an administrator or teacher made a decision, people accepted that decision without question. That is no longer the case. Today we must be specific and above average in decision making.

"I had to make some changes in myself, too. When I was principal, even though I had a very capable staff of teachers, I kept most of the decision-making in my own office. When a child was punished, I did it. If there were any parent conflicts, I wanted to handle them personally. For a several year period, I can't recall sitting down to an evening meal with my family without a telephone interruption. So, if I had an attribute, I was conscientious, but not only is that method not workable or practical, it'll kill you! That was an outstanding thing about Twitty -- his ability to surround himself with good people and if they weren't good, he made them good."

"Were you tough on your staff? I asked.

"No," he replied, "I don't think so. Sometimes I was abrupt and blunt and I later regretted it."

Harbin asked me to sit in an administrative staff meeting made up of principals and the school district business manager, Charles Simpson. A steady flow of ideas and last minute preparations ensued.

Afterwards, Harbin commented, "This is what it's all about -- encouraging the staff to try new things. We cannot be afraid to try changes. Our schools offer 117 curriculum units, more than most other schools. But we can't stop there, it's not good enough. We need to add quality to quantity.

"And the new learning center at Morehouse -- the plans for that include an autonomous unit, complete with four special education teachers, an industrial arts teacher, home economics specialist and qualified guidance counselor. We want to provide a place for students with marked learning problems to branch out from the mainstream of studies and meet their individual needs. We want them to stay there only what time they can't succeed in the mainstream learning program."

That is the basis for his philosophy.

"The individual worth of a man," Harbin said, "is the most important thing in the world. If kids break windows, there's a reason for it. We need to look behind what people do, reasons for what they do. It's up to us to respond, find out why, rather than render judgment."

Additional plans for the future, he says, will come about as needs arise.

With teaching techniques changing every day, Harbin reads at least 10 professional magazines a week, photostats and sends articles of special interest to his teachers.

Communications, he says, can always be improved, within the institution as well as outside. A more detailed budget breakdown is planned for the public as are regularly scheduled press to inform the people.

It's easy to envision a man of Harbin's physical stature on the golf course or in a fishing boat, but his favorite avocation is reading.

"I read anything," he said, in a lighter mood, "I sometimes gather up volumes of literature on a subject and study for several weeks, then I get interested in something like "The Godfather". But I'm not much of a poetry fan, primarily because I don't always understand, or take the time to understand it."

He is confessed lover of country and western music but says that few of hs close friends share that interest.

The Harbin family are Baptists and attend Trinity Church.

"I had little formal religious training when I was a child," he said. "I began to develop an interest in it during my last two years in college.

"I have deep personal feelings about religion. I would like for the impact of the life of Jesus Christ to have a bearing on my relationships with other people."

His three children are like preachers' kids, he says, and think perhaps he and their mother are remnants of the middle ages. Julie is 17, Ken, 15, and Laura is 12.

"We have excellent communication, though," he added. "I have to stop and put myself in their place sometimes to be sure I'm being fair."

"I tried to prepare them for this job, too."

"It's rather a fishbowl existence, isn't it?" I prompted.

"That's exactly what it is," he answered.

"Anything you'd like to add?" I had already made him late for a golf match. "What about the students personally?"

"One thing," he replied firmly. "A school administrator should never sell the feelings of kids short. They have some good ideas and I intend to give them decision making opportunities."
